This honoured uniform....

IN the ranks of nurses today stand thousands of true British women who reveal, amid conditions testing courage and nerve, that devotion to duty which makes their calling unique. A nurse's uniform is more than dress-wear; it is a symbol of what she stands for. That it should be well-made and durable and designed with meticulous accuracy are points of honour. That "Stethos" uniforms possess these qualities is known throughout the Hospital world.

"Stethos" Annex Capes and Cloaks have set the standard for accuracy and smartness of style and high quality of individual made-to-measure tailoring. They are made in many colours and are supplied in Melton Cloths, Velours and Serges. Length: Capes 27 in. to 36 in., Cloaks 38 in. to 48 in., unlined, or lined with flannel or sateen. Patterns and prices gladly sent on request.

The "Stethos" guarantee—fast-dyed and fully shrunk.

MEDICAL EVANS SUPPLIES

The experience of a century's trading is behind the House of Evans. The Company has the privilege of supplying not only some of the leading hospitals and public health departments in the United Kingdom, but also important institutions throughout the world.

This close contact and range of service have provided the experience upon which has been built a unique knowledge of the medical requirements that are necessary in the public health services, and different types of hospitals.

The Company's Products are manufactured in three separate units.

The Evans Biological Institute.
The Evans Pharmaceutical Laboratories.
The Evans Fine Chemical Laboratories.

These Laboratories are equipped to exercise a proper control of therapeutic agents at the different stages of manufacture. Each consignment of raw material entering the factories and laboratories is submitted to appropriate tests and certified before being passed for manufacturing purposes. The final products are not released unless they conform to the Company's own standards of purity and therapeutic efficacy as well as the statutory requirements of the British Pharmacopeia, the Therapeutic Substances Act, and other official orders and regulations.

An opportunity of quoting for the following will be greatly appreciated :

Antitoxins, Sera & Vaccines Germicides & Antiseptics
Drugs and Fine Chemicals Surgical Dressings
Medicinal Glassware

WHEN Queen Victoria WAS CROWNED...

IN 1837, when Queen Victoria came to the Throne, British trade began to flourish at home and abroad. Many firms, now famous, were then in their infancy—amongst them Thomas Hedley & Company Ltd. We can, therefore, claim more than a century of experience in the manufacture of high-quality soap products.

Today, Hedley products still maintain the same high degree of quality that has won confidence since Victorian days . . . and under difficult war-time conditions we are doing our utmost to keep in contact with all our customers, and to give them any service they may require.

AT YOUR SERVICE: If you need advice or help on any war-time washing or cleaning problem, write to the Laundry Service Department, Thomas Hedley & Co. Ltd., Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1.

We are the manufacturers of Cream Suds, Super Curd Flakes, Snowhite Flakes for laundry work. Olivso Bar, Trafford Bar, Scourox Cleansing Powder for general purposes. We also make Dymex, the new Triple-Action, Non-Caustic Detergent, which leaves crockery and glassware brilliantly clean and sparkling.

Have You Considered the Merits of SANTRON the New Germicide ?..

Gynæcology and Midwifery

Santron contains a higher percentage of pure potash castor oil soap, and differs from most germicides in that an additional soap solution is not required. It is clean and pleasant to use. When necessary may be applied in undiluted form.

For Hospitals

The essential oils do not produce any overpowering odour. The standard Rideal Walker Test proves the strength on the Typhoid Baccillus to be five times stronger than pure Phenol. Even under the most unfavourable conditions Medical research workers in a London Teaching Hospital have shown that Santron exerts its antiseptic power in a high degree. It is available to Hospitals and Public Institutions in bulk quantities at an amazingly low price.

In General Practice

For cleansing cuts and wounds, sterilization of hands and instruments, Santron is efficient and convenient. Non-poisonous, non-corrosive and harmless to linen or delicate materials.

In the Home

Santron is available to the public through all chemists, and may be indicated for all purposes of personal hygiene, including gargling, as a deodorant, and general disinfecting of sick rooms, and treatment of clothes.

Santron is manufactured solely by Rendells, a name known to the Medical Profession throughout the world for over 50 years. Like all other Rendell Products, it is made under the same scrupulous conditions and control of an independent Medical Board.

Santron is being used by many General and Women's Hospitals, Public Institutions and Factories throughout the Country.

Full Medical literature and samples supplied on application.

TAUNTON'S
New Balkan Beam Fracture Bedstead

Fitted with UP-TO-DATE SECTIONAL MATTRESS

No. 5744 C. Outer bows and vertical poles of 1¼in. welded steel tube. Side tubes, 1½in., ditto, 4in. "Glidex" easy running, ball bearing, continuously lubricated castors at head.

Pole A can be turned in any direction and attached to either side of bed.

Beam B adjustable in any direction, and fitted with rubber end to save wall from injury.

Bars C adjustable in all directions, both vertically and horizontally. Hardwood feet at foot.

All the fittings can be securely locked in any position. Standard size, 6ft. 6in. × 3ft.

SECTIONAL MATTRESS

The seven sections are equal size, so if one in the centre gets undue wear, one of the end sections, which have little to support, can be changed over.

Each section is in ONE PIECE, being cased in standard blue and white striped Institution Ticking containing a soft wire centre with layers of Hair.

Each section is easily removed from Under the Bed, giving access for dressing or irrigation, without any disturbance of the patient.

By placing a stool and pan under the bed and removing a section, it can readily be used for Commode purposes.

JOHN & JOSEPH TAUNTON, Ltd., Sherbourne Rd., Birmingham 12

HOSPITAL LAW NOTES

By W. E. C. BAYNES, M.A., LL.M.

of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law,
Hon. Legal Adviser to The British Hospitals Association

The book deals with practically every legal or semi-legal point on which Secretaries of Hospitals have asked for information during several years past, and there is reason to hope that it may contain the answers to most of the legal problems that Secretaries ordinarily meet with in practice.
The subjects are arranged alphabetically and fully indexed to facilitate reference.

Press References

"This book should be one of the working tools of any hospital administrator, whether member of a committee or executive officer."—The Times.

"They cover almost every conceivable legal or semi-legal difficulty which a hospital secretary is likely to encounter. . . . The notes on road accident patients, on the recovery of income-tax under subscribers' seven-year covenants, and on liability for negligence are good instances of the clear and concise help which Mr. Baynes offers to his readers. The secretaries of hospitals and similar institutions who buy his little book will get good value."—The Lancet.

"It is difficult not to use extravagant superlatives in expressing one's admiration of this book. . . . No hospital secretary should be without it, and it should be worth almost its weight in Treasury Notes to proprietors of private hospitals and nursing homes, though of course it does not deal with the legal problems which are peculiar to their status."
British Medical Journal.

"This is a book which has long been needed. We desire to congratulate Mr. Baynes on the excellence of these notes which are characterized by accuracy throughout. They show a practical acquaintance with the law on the subjects dealt with, and no doubt this book will soon be in great demand. It certainly ought to have a long and useful career before it. Meantime it has our warmest recommendation."—The Medical Times.

"Beneath its unassuming title this book hides a mine of information for the hospital officer. One is struck by the simplicity of its language and by the avoidance of legal phraseology whenever possible. . . . The book should also be of value to any member of the legal profession whose practice brings him into contact with hospitals."—The Hospital.

"Of very great practical value to everyone connected with hospitals or with nursing and convalescent homes or similar institutions. It is a book which can be thoroughly recommended to anyone who is interested in the legal side of hospital work and management. Its accuracy can be vouched for."

To all whom it may concern—

If your job is to buy cottons or linens, don't forget that they should always be 'Sanforized*'-Shrunk. Uniform cloths and other materials that have been 'Sanforized*'-Shrunk can be relied on never to shrink again. They are not just 'pre-shrunk': they have been shrunk permanently, scientifically, accurately. Wash and wash them!—they'll never lose their efficiency and smartness. When you buy cottons and linens remember to insist that they are 'Sanforized'-Shrunk. They are obtainable through your usual sources of supply.

Milton treatment of wounds

This treatment proceeds by three stages:—

1. MILTON 50% SOLUTION

Thorough cleansing and mechanical removal of all infected plasma proteids, necrotic tissue and pus. Milton (up to 50 per cent. solution) dissolves this detritus and rapidly sterilizes the clean surface. As a hypertonic saline it produces profuse fluid exudation.

"The process of mechanical cleansing is "of most advantage in wounds containing sloughs and is well served by solutions "containing chlorine or liberating oxygen, "both of which tend to disintegrate and "detach necrotic tissue."—Lancet, May 4, 1940. **

"The most rapidly acting antiseptics are "the halogens and those liberating nascent "oxygen."—Lancet, April 27, 1940. **

"Profuse fluid exudation can be deliberately produced by applying hypertonic "solutions of salt."—Lancet, May 4, 1940. **

2. MILTON 5% SOLUTION

The clean wound is kept sterile by an isotonic antiseptic protective layer, applied by dressing, irrigation or immersion. In this mild aqueous medium a normal granulation proceeds and exudation ceases.

*"The proper vehicle for an antiseptic to be "applied to a wound is water, and the solution should if possible be rendered isotonic."—Lancet, May 4, 1940.

3. MILTON ½% SOLUTION

The Milton is then reduced to ½ per cent. solution at which dilution the hypochlorite has been found to actually stimulate the cell-division and tissue-growth, with consequent rapid healing. After débridement, this course of treatment is normally painless.

This therapy cannot be carried out with full success by the use of Dakin's solution or of Liq. Sod. Chlorin., owing to their causticity, their deficient saline content and to their varying strength of hypochlorite.

* Prevention and Treatment of Wound Infection. Action of Antiseptics on Wounds.

For greater control in the washroom — Cream Suds

Obligations — with safety: Today, it is the launderer's responsibility to keep pace with an ever-increasing demand for laundry service . . . only by using safe, speedy and efficient methods can he hope to meet this demand.

Now, more than ever, the Cream Suds launderer has reason to be pleased that he no longer gambles on variable soap and alkali mixing. He knows that he can depend on every barrel of Cream Suds to be uniform — giving the same safe results week in and week out . . . the same excellent whiteness retention, complete dirt removal, and maximum protection of fabric strength.

He knows, too, that Cream Suds makes the job easier and safer for new wash-house hands, because Cream Suds, the complete, scientifically balanced soap for white work, requires no premixing and is ready for direct application to the washwheel. It is the balanced ingredients in Cream Suds that ensure work of uniform high quality.

The fuel problem: Reduced supplies need not mean reduced output. You can economise in a new way with the Cream Suds Control Formula — and effect a saving of 25-30% in coal consumption without lowering production or quality.

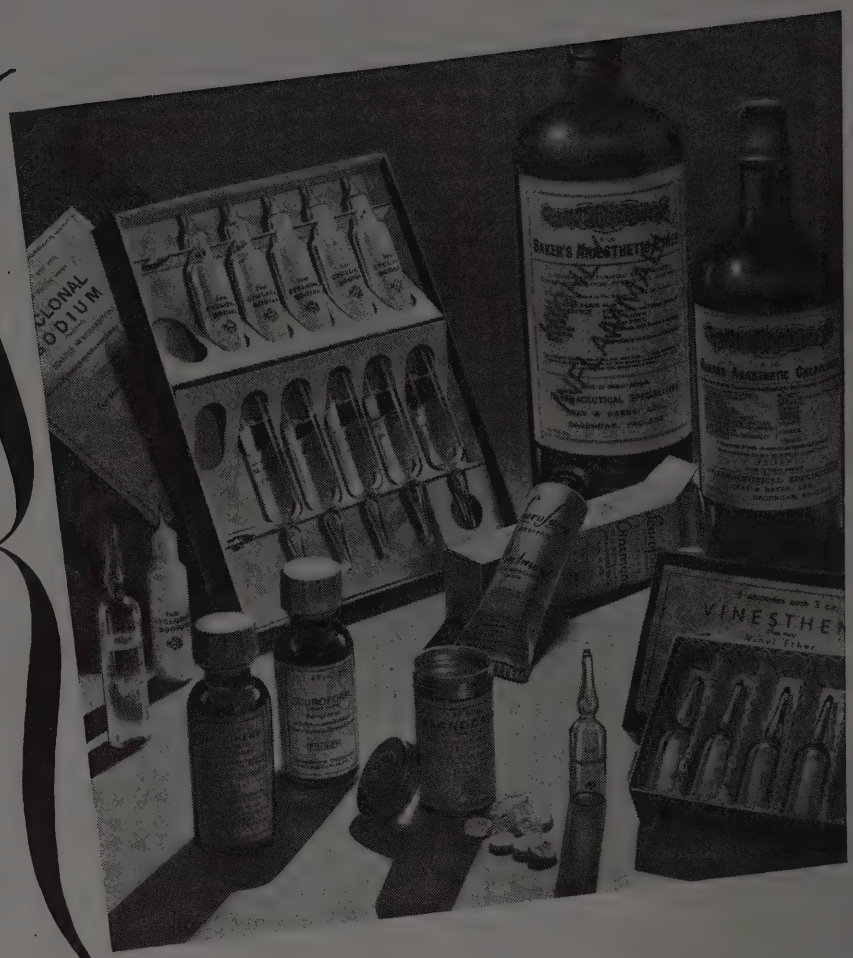
ANAESTHETICS



OF OUTSTANDING VALUE BY MAY & BAKER

FOR GENERAL ANAESTHESIA

CYCLONAL SODIUM INTRAVENOUSLY

for induction, short basal narcosis and total anaesthesia, is of low toxicity: untoward effects and contra-indications are few. Induction is smooth and easy; sleep ensues within 15 to 60 seconds, with complete elimination of the stage of excitement.

VINESTHENE BY INHALATION is of particular value in short anaesthesia or as an adjuvant when additional muscular relaxation is desired. Freedom from post-operative nausea or vomiting and from post-anaesthetic pulmonary complications enables this drug to be used with particular success for administration to children.

CHLOROFORM AND ETHER

by May & Baker are products of the highest quality, prepared by a process which eliminates the usual impurities. Both these preparations satisfy the most stringent requirements of the British and foreign pharmacopoeias.

FOR LOCAL ANAESTHESIA

PLANOCAINE PARENTERALLY

for local, regional and spinal anaesthesia in general and dental surgery, is less toxic than cocaine, though equally effective, and is non-habit forming. It may also be used by the Leriche method for the treatment of sprains.

SCUROFORM SURFACE APPLICATION for the alleviation of pain, is valuable for certain minor procedures in general surgery, gynaecology, proctology, venereology, stomatology, and dental surgery. It is a practically non-toxic local anaesthetic for surface application.

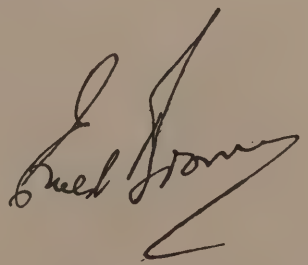
FOREWORD

By the Rt. Hon. ERNEST BROWN, M.C., M.P.
Minister of Health

THE "Hospitals Year-Book," like the Hospitals themselves, needs no commendation. From its first publication it has been in the front rank of reference books, and its annual appearance has been awaited expectantly by all who are concerned in health problems in general and hospital administration in particular. The "Year-Book" is more than a mere directory; it is a compendium of knowledge on an infinite variety of topics of interest to hospitals. By its comparative tables analysing the work and expenditure of different types of institution it enables those responsible to measure, in a manner which would otherwise be impossible, the efficiency of their own institution, with consequent gain to the efficiency of all.

In the difficult days through which we are passing there is a greater need than ever for that close co-operation and co-ordination the promotion of which is the first object of the British Hospitals Association. The "Year-Book" is at once a symbol of co-operation and of great value to the Hospital World, issued as it is under the auspices of the Joint Council of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society and of the British Hospitals Association. I am glad of the opportunity of according my tribute to it, and, in doing so, of conveying my best wishes to the Association and every hospital which it represents.



Ministry of Health,
Whitehall, S.W.1.

EDITORIAL

by the Chairman of the "Hospitals Year-Book" Sub-Committee.

It is with sincere regret that we have to announce the death of Mr. R. H. P. Orde, O.B.E., B.A., Editor of the "Hospitals Year-Book." Mr. Orde has been Editor since the first issue appeared in 1931, and before that he was responsible for the Annual Report of the Joint Council's "Voluntary Hospitals in Great Britain (excluding London)" from 1925 to 1930. He graduated B.A. from Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1889, after having rowed in the 'Varsity crews of 1888 and 1889, and then, after a short initiatory period at the London Hospital, he proceeded to lay the foundation of his encyclopaedic knowledge of hospitals during the twenty-two years he served as House Governor of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

In 1922 he joined the staff of the Joint Council and in 1928 on the formation of the Central Bureau of Hospital Information he was appointed Director, a position which he held till the time of his death.

In 1929 Orde became Honorary Secretary of the British Hospitals Association. The "Year-Book" was originally published under the auspices of the British Hospitals Association and the Joint Council of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross, and as Editor, Orde had associated with him an Editorial Committee. The Foreword to this new issue, written by the Hon. Sir Arthur Stanley, G.B.E., C.B., M.V.O., Chairman of the Joint Council and President of the British Hospitals Association, concluded with these words—"The 'Hospitals Year-Book' will be the first really comprehensive survey of the income, expenditure and volume of work of the British Voluntary Hospital System. I am confident that it will be of great value to hospital authorities throughout the United Kingdom." This was a very true prophecy and its fulfilment is very largely due to the Editor of the book in question.

The following testimony by the Minister of Health, published as a Foreword in the 1940 edition, is a gratifying confirmation of the forecast made by Sir Arthur Stanley in 1931.

> "I am glad to have the opportunity of saying a word of appreciation of the 'Hospitals Year-Book.' It has long been familiar to those of us whose concern is with the hospitals and their related services as something much more than a standard work of reference, offering as it does a general review each year of hospital achievement and a pointer to future development."

The volume for 1932 was published for the first time by the Central Bureau of Hospital Information with a new Editorial Committee, and Mr. Orde as Editor and Mr. Ceadel as Sub-Editor, the financial responsibility being undertaken by the Joint Council who appointed an ad hoc sub-committee to be responsible for its annual publication.

Mr. Orde's position will be hard to fill, not only in the Editorial chair, but as Director of the Central Bureau of Hospital Information and as Honorary Secretary of the B.H.A. No one could equal him in the knowledge that he possessed of the work of the Voluntary Hospitals and the difficulties under which it was often carried on. As Director of the Bureau he was always at the service of any hospital whose managers required advice on the technical or financial side of their work. His wide experience of the Voluntary Hospital was a source from which he readily drew to help smooth trouble when he was called in, like a doctor, to prescribe for his patients. He must have travelled many thousands of miles in his visits to advise and suggest when invited to assist in solving the many problems confronting Boards or Committees of Management.

His enthusiasm for his work and his intense optimism were infectious. Only his drive could have brought the Sankey Commission into being and guided it through to its invaluable Report. It is largely due to him that the Voluntary Hospitals have seen the necessity of abandoning their somewhat individualistic outlook and getting together and recognising the fact that if the voluntary system is to live the Voluntary Hospitals must show a united front to all attacks made to undermine it. The recognition of his strenuous work came somewhat belatedly in 1938, when he was awarded the O.B.E.

Orde held a unique position in the hospital world, and his name will be writ large in any future history of the Voluntary Hospitals of this country.

It is also with regret that we have to announce that the Financial Review will not, owing to his serious illness, be written this year by Sir Charles Harris. Readers of the "Hospitals Year-Book" have become accustomed, since 1932, to study with interest his masterly articles on the subject of hospital finance. He has our best wishes for a speedy recovery. We are happy to report that we have been fortunate enough to have secured —at somewhat short notice—Lord Plender to undertake the Financial Review for 1941.

Other articles appearing in this issue are :—

1. " The Future of the Voluntary Hospitals," by Sir Bernard Docker, K.B.E., Chairman of the British Hospitals Association and the Westminster Hospital.
2. " Regionalisation and the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust," by Alderman W. Hyde, C.B.E.
3. " War Shelter Hygiene," by Lord Horder, G.C.V.O., F.R.C.P.
4. " Auxiliary Hospitals and Convalescent Homes in War Time," by Sir Alfred Webb-Johnson, C.B.E., D.S.O., T.D., F.R.C.S.
5. " Bombed Hospitals."
   (a) A metropolitan example, by Lt.-Col. A. P. B. Irwin, D.S.O., House Governor and Clerk to the Governors of St. Thomas's Hospital.
   (b) A provincial example, by S. Cecil Hill, House Governor and Secretary of the Coventry and Warwickshire Hospital.

It is regretted that fulfilment of the promise made in last year's " Hospitals Year-Book " that a section would be specially devoted in the 1941 edition to Pay Bed Costs has had to be unavoidably postponed. The Editorial Committee decided that it would not be advisable to print Tables 16–19, as owing to the outbreak of war in September 1939 comparison with 1938 would be valueless.

Admission of the illustrations is not intended to be a precedent for future issues, but it was felt that for the purpose of war record they might be of interest in years to come.

Pending the appointment of Mr. Orde's successor the Chairman of the " Year-Book " Sub-Committee has undertaken the responsibility, assisted by the Sub-Editor, of seeing the 1941 edition through the press.

WOOLRYCH PEROWNE.

THE FUTURE OF THE VOLUNTARY HOSPITALS

By SIR BERNARD DOCKER, K.B.E., J.P.
Chairman of the British Hospitals Association.

As a result of a second world war within twenty-five years, the future of voluntary hospitals becomes a matter for anxious thought. Having regard to the nature and importance of their work, it is strange that this anxiety is mainly due to considerations of a purely financial nature.

There are some who feel that the odds are far too great, that there is, in fact, no future for voluntary effort and that State control is inevitable. This was said at the close of the last war, but then and also now it is by no means inevitable and certainly not desirable. In fact, the elimination of the Voluntary Hospital System would be nothing less than a disaster, quite apart from the fact that the additional burden thrown upon the ratepayers would run into millions of pounds.

The voluntary hospitals have reached their present condition of efficiency as a result of prolonged effort and by way of countless trials and stresses. Many of them are the product of centuries of evolution. It therefore seems odd that appreciation of their value by Governments is of comparatively recent development.

There are those who think that the proper way to tidy up and to administer the health services of the country is to create a unified system under the State. There is no necessity whatever for, and there are many reasons against, this type of unified control and the consequent handing over of voluntary hospitals lock, stock and barrel to the State.

The ideal of a single hospital organisation has, however, much to commend itself if, as I believe, it could ultimately be brought about by the institution of a National Hospital Organisation, but not a nationalised hospital system. This could be effected by the creation of a body of authority similar in structure to the Port of London Authority, the Central Electricity Board, the B.B.C. or similar public undertakings.

In voluntary hospitals there exist to an extraordinary degree ability, elasticity and goodwill. Apart from their immediate task of curing the sick, voluntary hospitals have made a remarkable contribution to the health knowledge of the community. Attached to them are our most distinguished surgeons, physicians and research workers. The training of students who later, in their turn, become these distinguished people, the training of nurses, and the discovery of new methods of diagnosis and treatment have all been carried on in a truly remarkable way within their walls.

There is much to be said for bringing close together and ultimately into one service the expanding services of the municipal hospitals and those of the voluntary hospitals and securing ultimate co-ordination through one central representative body for the whole country. The beneficial effect of such co-operation between the local authorities and the voluntary hospitals would not be limited to the treatment of the sick, but should also have an important bearing on the preventive aspect of health services.

County Councils and County Borough Councils have a statutory obligation to provide adequate facilities for the treatment of the sick poor in the areas under their control, including the care of chronic and senile illness.

The voluntary hospitals in their turn, though free from any statutory compulsion, help in this task besides doing their teaching and research work, which in a properly organised system should, together with the research into the diagnosis and treatment of more obscure diseases, be one of their more primary functions.

Closer working and partnership between these two should bring nothing but good.

The voluntary hospitals do one-fourth of the medical work of the country, which, if not undertaken by them, would be a call upon the State. Every patient treated in a voluntary hospital is one less person to be treated in a municipal hospital at the expense of the rates, and it is equally true that all hospitals, whether municipal or voluntary, have benefited and continue to benefit by the use of new methods of treatment made available by researches which in the past have in very great measure originated in voluntary hospitals.

In a particular area where voluntary and municipal hospitals are working side by side, it should be obvious that there may at present be unnecessary overlapping and duplication; also that where extension of services is necessary, careful consideration should be given as to the location in which additional facilities should be provided, while in arriving at such a decision local considerations as to capacity for expansion would, of course, be a guiding factor.

In the earliest days the voluntary hospitals were intended to treat those without visible means of support, or at least without the means to make much more than some token payment. As the work developed and improved with inevitably increased cost, financial needs led the various hospitals through the services of trained almoners to investigate the ability of patients to make some more substantial contribution towards the cost of treatment.

As knowledge increases year by year and the diagnosis and treatment of diseases become more successful, the tendency has been for both diagnosis and treatment to become progressively more elaborate and therefore progressively more expensive.

In due time the anomalous position arose that a person had to be sufficiently poor to enable him to get the excellent treatment provided in a hospital. This situation did much to revolutionise hospital methods of financing their expenditure.

In the first place came the contributory schemes designed to ensure that the mass of the people from which the hospital received the bulk of their patients should be able to make a contribution towards the cost of their treatment, and that at a time other than when by reason of their sickness they might be in reduced or parlous circumstances. The importance of this movement will be appreciated if it is realised that through these schemes the total income now received by voluntary hospitals throughout the country is in the neighbourhood of £3,300,000.

Further there is no doubt that this form of assisting both the hospitals and the sick is only in the early stages of its development, and that much more can be done and will have to be done as time goes on.

In the second place there was the application of the contributory scheme principle to cover members of the professional and other classes who had hitherto been excluded from the benefits and advantages of treatment in hospitals.

The success of these schemes has suffered some interference from immediate pre-war and war conditions, but it is to be hoped the schemes in hand will be launched as soon as ever is reasonable.

The services of hospitals to-day are such that they can be no longer confined to sections of the community, but must be made available to all, with appropriate payment from those who can afford it.

It is worthy of note that so authoritative a body as the British Medical Association in its opening paragraph on " Hospital Policy " states :—

> " Among the social changes of recent years none is more remarkable than that which has taken place in our hospitals. Originally charitable institutions for the general treatment of the very poor, they have become centres of highly specialised and complex service to which four-fifths of the population look for help and where the community as a whole claims as a right services which can only be rendered by a great organisation or its dependent branches. Voluntary hospitals have become increasingly the hospitals of the worker and his dependants. There is an urgent national demand that the benefits of the fully staffed and equipped hospital shall not be denied to any class in the community, and in particular shall be available at reasonable rates for those who cannot meet the cost of private nursing homes and whose means are yet above the income level of the insured person."

It is fair to note here that a beginning has been made, in that a large number of hospitals now provide what are called Pay Beds, but as in the case of contributory schemes it is equally fair to say that this is virtually in the stages of infancy and remains to be fully developed.

As is well known in the hospital world, voluntary hospitals up and down the country have for a considerable period undertaken work for municipal and other bodies for which they receive payment.

It is not so well known that voluntary hospitals do a tremendous amount of work for the State, such as under the National Health Insurance Acts and Acts concerned with child welfare, for which they receive no recognition whatever.

The ever-generous public have made wonderful contributions towards the upkeep of voluntary hospitals and in the provision of capital expenditure for their many needs, but with the growth of the work and the constant growth of expense to-day, these contributions form not more than a third of the income.

It is only to be expected in war time that the generous public find it less easy to render the help that they might wish to the particular hospital which they support so loyally. There are many counter calls upon their purse, calls which are insistent, and in the case of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, inexorable.

In war-time voluntary hospitals are playing their full part in the work, not only with dealing with their ordinary patients, viz. the sick population, but in dealing also with air raid and other casualties, for whom the Ministry of Health has undertaken to make provision. For their contribution to the war casualty services of the country the Ministry of Health is paying the hospitals for services which they have been required to render, based upon the cost of such services. This, then, is the most recent and wholesale example of payment for services rendered, which might form a guide to future policy. When the history of these arrangements comes to be written, the highest praise will inevitably be given to the contribution made by voluntary hospitals.

There are those who feel that an attempt to bring together in close working relationship voluntary and rate-aided institutions would be like an attempt to mix oil and water. Experience, however, shows that this view does not appear tenable.

To provide funds for the continuance of hospital and health services of the country, voluntary and municipal, on a regional basis, through the benevolence of Lord Nuffield, the Nuffield Trust has recently been brought into existence.

Although measured in terms of the life of the voluntary hospital system, the existence of this Trust has been of the shortest duration, already it has achieved most encouraging successes, and, given goodwill, there is no reason why the regional working arrangements should not be brought into being throughout the country.

Through the medium of these regional arrangements it is intended gradually to bring into properly co-ordinated services the interests concerned. Whilst the need for the final attainment of this object is urgent, of necessity the processes for final attainment cannot be rapid.

It must be remembered that the health services of the country, like practically every organisation or system in Britain, are of a highly complex and even diverse nature, brought into existence rather than organised over a long period of time, and for this reason time is necessary adequately to reach the ideal system.

To sum up, the future of voluntary hospitals is bound up inevitably with the future planning of the health services of the country. It is necessary to appreciate and acknowledge three principles, and when these three principles have been freely acknowledged, the high road to successful attainment has been reached.

These principles are :—

(1) That continuance of the conditions of elasticity and freedom in working inherent in the voluntary hospitals' organisation is a vital factor in ensuring progress of medical science;

(2) That voluntary hospitals have every right to payment from the State and the Municipalities for services they render to the State and the Municipalities;

(3) That co-operation between the voluntary hospitals and the rate-aided or State-aided institutions is possible and highly to be desired.

With these principles freely acknowledged, and with the goodwill which should exist on every side, ever remembering that the ultimate goal is the common good, the ideal of national hospital services should be attained.

This would be in the best interests of all, and in being brought about could preserve the immense goodwill and enthusiastic support which these voluntary institutions enjoy from all sorts and conditions of people.

BERNARD DOCKER.

REGIONALISATION AND THE NUFFIELD PROVINCIAL HOSPITALS TRUST

An account of the progress made in implementing the Scheme for the Regionalisation of Hospital and Ancillary Medical Services.

By ALDERMAN W. HYDE, C.B.E., M.A., J.P.

Secretary to the Trust.

The 1940 issue of the "Hospitals Year-Book" included some accounts of regional activity in Birmingham, Devon and Cornwall, Liverpool, Manchester, Oxford and Sheffield prior to the creation of the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust. The following is an account of the further progress that has been made possible as a result of Lord Nuffield's munificence.

During 1938 and 1939 the Provisional Central Council of the British Hospitals Association made a certain amount of progress and undertook some useful propaganda, but it was seriously handicapped by lack of funds. This made it difficult to create the necessary organisation through which the scheme could be developed. There was no Central Fund making grants to Provincial, Scottish and Welsh hospitals from which amounts could also be made available for the furtherance of the hospitals regionalisation scheme.

Both these needs were met by Lord Nuffield, when, with characteristic foresight and public-spiritedness, he announced his intention of creating the Provincial Hospitals Trust that bears his name with an endowment of one million share units in Morris Motors Limited.

Lord Nuffield appointed a Board of Trustees to administer the fund. The Trustees include men and women who are actively identified with voluntary hospitals, medical organisations and local authorities in the Provinces, in Scotland and in Wales.

The objects of the Trust are two-fold :—

(a) The Trustees are to encourage the organisation of Regional and Divisional Hospital Councils and, where necessary, to assist in the formation of these councils by making contributions towards the cost of their organisation.

(b) The Trustees are also authorised to make grants and donations to hospitals through approved Regional and Divisional Hospital Councils. They will not, ordinarily, make these grants or donations to individual hospitals otherwise than through these Regional and Divisional Councils.

The present income of the Trust is approximately £100,000, and the Trustees are hopeful that the fund created by Lord Nuffield's munificent gift may be increased by further substantial donations contributed by other generous supporters of hospital services.

Before describing the work of the Trust under the heading (a) above it is desirable to give some account of the organisation of hospital services on a regional basis which it is an object of the Trust to promote.

The terms of reference of the Sankey Commission had confined its enquiries and recommendations to voluntary hospitals, but the British Hospitals Association's Provisional Central Council, when it came to consider the general position, realised that it was not possible to ensure the full co-ordination of hospital and ancillary medical services unless the co-operation of public health authorities was secured.

Lord Sankey himself, in an address at the Annual General Meeting of the Berks, Bucks and Oxon Regional Hospitals Council on January 24th, 1941, which was fully reported in the Press, emphasised that the Commission had perceived the necessity for co-ordination, not only between the voluntary hospitals themselves, but between the municipal and voluntary hospital services, and had accordingly devoted a whole chapter of the Report to this matter. Lord Sankey further expressed his complete approval of the extended Regionalisation Scheme supported by the Nuffield Trust, which is designed to produce a balanced relationship between the voluntary hospitals, the local authorities and the State.

In his letter to the then Minister of Health, Mr. Walter Elliot, in which he announced his intention of creating the Trust, Lord Nuffield expressed the hope that, as a result of the regionalisation scheme, ". . . a truly national hospital service may be evolved in course of time which will embrace all that is best of both public and voluntary effort, with the maximum of economy to the State and to the private purse. It is my earnest hope that the voluntary hospitals will do everything in their power to carry out their historic work. It is clear, however, that they can only do this as an integral part of a properly co-ordinated national service." In his reply to Lord Nuffield's letter Mr. Walter Elliot said, "I think we can rightly take the Local Government Act of 1929 as laying the statutory foundation of the conception which you have in mind, and I am sure that local authorities will be all the more inspired by your gift to play their part in the development of the hospital system of the future."

It is now becoming increasingly realised that, if regionalisation were confined to voluntary hospitals it would fail in its object, namely, the creation of a complete and fully co-ordinated national hospital service. It is also becoming increasingly clear that the scheme, in its full application, is a definite contribution towards national planning. It should prevent overlapping and duplication of services, ensure that available accommodation is put to the most effective use, and secure the development of new services only after full consultation between all the interests concerned. By such co-operative action real economies in expenditure on hospital services, both municipal and voluntary, should be effected. This object would be achieved by the following means :—

(a) The organisation of some 60 or 70 Divisional Hospital Councils each based on the service requirements of the areas concerned. All divisional areas would include a "key" hospital and, where the divisional area did not itself possess a hospital having a medical school, it would be attached to a Region in which a medical school was located.

(b) The creation of 15 or 16 Regional Councils each of which would include representatives of a number of divisional areas.

(c) The formation of a Central Hospitals' Board or Council to be undertaken when the regional and divisional grouping has been completed.

Both hospital and ancillary medical services in the Divisions will be represented in the Divisional Councils, the functions of which will include consideration of proposals for co-ordinating and extending hospital services for the area, consultation with statutory authorities for these purposes, and the receipt and allocation of funds. The Regional Councils will include representatives of the Divisional Councils of the Region, and their functions, generally, may be described as doing for the Region what the Divisional Council does for the Division. The Regional Councils will appoint representatives to the Central Hospitals' Board or Council the functions of which, it is suggested, should include the co-ordination of hospital services (public and voluntary) throughout the country, the allocation to Regional Councils of any monies made available from national public funds for the support of hospital services, and liaison with Government Departments in the development of these services.

PROGRESS MADE DURING 1940.

(1) The Regionalisation Scheme and the Ministry of Health.

Both Mr. Walter Elliot's successors as Minister of Health, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald and Mr. Ernest Brown, have renewed his assurance of the Ministry's agreement and support in the purpose and methods of the Trust. Mr. MacDonald, in his letter to the Chairman of the Trust, wrote :—

"I have been keenly interested in my various discussions with you and your colleagues of the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust to learn details of the Trust's present and prospective work, and should like to assure you of my warm sympathy and continuing support in the valuable work that you are doing. The question of post-war hospital policy is one of major importance, and I am sure that the Trust is right in attempting, even during the heat and labour of the present struggle, to focus discussion by bringing together in its Regional Councils representatives of the various interests concerned with a view to clearing the ground for future action. I can assure you that in the Ministry of Health much careful preparatory thought is being given to this problem, as well as to the wider questions concerning the medical and health services of the nation.

"Let me add that I think you are right in concentrating on two points. Whatever may be the proper ultimate hospital service, we should build up from existing organisations, and the first is, therefore, to find the right relation between the local authorities on the one hand and the voluntary hospitals on the other. Both have played a great part in our hospital system in the past, and will, I am convinced, make essential contributions to the future. There is, as you know, a variety of ways in which under the existing law a fruitful co-operation between local authorities and voluntary hospitals can be achieved, and I do not doubt that further methods of mutual assistance and co-operation can and should be devised.

"Secondly, I am convinced that the problem is one that must be examined on a basis wider than that of existing local government areas, and that some form of regional unit will be necessary in designing a system which will make the best use of our existing hospital accommodation and will avoid duplication and waste in making good any deficiencies. The precise manner in which a regional conception of this kind should be fitted into the existing system of local government is in itself a problem calling for most careful, constructive consideration, and I am very glad to know that the local authorities, through their representatives on your Regional Councils, are taking an active part in the discussions which the Trust has set on foot."

The Trust is maintaining close contact with the Department and with its Regional officers in areas in which Regional Hospitals Councils have been formed.

(2) Central Organisation.

The Regionalisation Council of the Trust.

On the inception of the Trust the trustees invited the British Hospitals Association to co-operate in the development of the regionalisation scheme by authorising the provincial members of the Provisional Central Council of the Association to serve on the Regionalisation Council of the Trust. This proposal was endorsed by the Council of the Association and the Trustees are under considerable obligation to the Chairman of the Provisional Central Council (Mr. S. P. Richardson) and his provincial colleagues for their co-operation.

Sir George Martin, who is closely identified with voluntary hospital and local authority activities in Yorkshire, has accepted a unanimous invitation to become Vice-Chairman of the Regionalisation Council of the Trust.

The Medical Advisory Council of the Trust.

The functions of the Medical Advisory Council include :—

(a) Receiving and reporting on questions referred to the Council by the Trustees or by the Provincial Hospitals Regionalisation Council.

(b) Arranging for members of the Council to inspect personally the conditions obtaining in a Region or Division at the discretion of the Chairman or at the request of the Trustees or the Provincial Hospitals Regionalisation Council and to report thereon to the appropriate body.

(c) Communicating directly to the Trustees any expression of opinion formed by the Council on matters of medical policy and interest in so far as they concern the actions and purposes of the Trust.

The Trustees were much gratified by the ready response of the distinguished representatives of the medical profession who were invited to serve on this Council, from which the Trust has received much valuable advice in connection with proposals for the development and co-ordination of hospital and ancillary medical services in the Provinces.

The Chairman of the Medical Advisory Council (Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard) has conferred with representatives of Medical Faculties, Hospital Medical Staffs and Public Medical Officers at Bristol, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Sheffield and other centres.

Medical Advisory Committees have been appointed in each area in which a Regional Hospitals Council has been created.

(3) Liaison with Other Central Organisations.

Close contact is being maintained with the British Hospitals Association and with both the County Councils Association and the National Association of Municipal Corporations. All these bodies are represented upon the Regionalisation Council of the Trust.

In connection with the organisation of area conferences, preliminary to the formation of Regional or Divisional Hospitals Councils, the appropriate area organisation of the British Hospitals Association is being invited to appoint representatives to attend.

Although the British Hospitals Association is taking an active and substantial part in establishing the Regional organisations outlined in the foregoing pages and Provincial members of the Provisional Central Council are serving on the Regionalisation Council of the Trust, there is no suggestion that the new comprehensive Regional organisations should supersede the British Hospitals Association Regional Councils nor that the projected National Hospitals Council should take the place of the central British Hospitals Association organisation. Indeed, it is appreciated that it is more important than ever before that the voluntary hospitals should have their own central and local representative bodies to deal with their own special problems and to represent their particular interests.

(4) Progress in the Formation of Hospital Councils.

Conditions arising out of the war necessarily affected the activities of the Trust during 1940. In some areas war conditions made it impossible to organise conferences and, in others, there was some disinclination to proceed actively with the co-ordination of hospital services during the war period. On the other hand there was, in many provincial areas, a realisation that economic conditions and service requirements are undergoing considerable transition as a result of the war, and this stimulated interest in the scheme for the regionalisation of hospital services which is being developed by the Trust.

When all relevant factors are taken into consideration the progress made during the year was not unsatisfactory. Successful conferences were held at Bristol, Edinburgh, Guildford, Leeds, Manchester, Newcastle, Plymouth, Sheffield and Truro. These conferences were attended by representatives of voluntary hospitals and local authorities, and approval of the Regionalisation Scheme was indicated on each occasion. Representatives of the Trustees or the Regionalisation Council of the Trust conferred with organisations of voluntary hospitals at Liverpool, Glasgow, Cambridge, Exeter and Wolverhampton. The atmosphere at these meetings was favourable, and indicated a general desire on the part of the voluntary hospitals in the areas concerned to co-operate with the Trust in the development of the regionalisation scheme.

In Scotland an Advisory Central Council for the regionalisation of hospital services has been formed in association with the Trust, and much useful progress has been made both by the Council and by its Medical Advisory Committee under the Chairmanship of Sir John Fraser.

Northern Ireland has been visited on behalf of the Trust by the Chairmen of the Regionalisation and Medical Councils (Mr. S. P. Richardson and Sir Farquhar Buzzard). They were cordially received by the Prime Minister, the Minister of Home Affairs, the Vice-Chancellor of Belfast University, and by influential representatives of voluntary hospitals in that Province. Arrangements are being made for these preliminary contacts to be followed by a formal conference at Belfast.

During 1940 the following Regional and Divisional Hospitals Councils were constituted :—

Regional Councils.

Berks, Bucks and Oxon Regional Hospitals Council,

South-Western Hospitals Regional Council (Devon and Cornwall)

(each comprising three fully constituted Divisional Hospitals Councils), and the North-Eastern Hospitals Advisory Council (Northumberland, Durham and the Cleveland Division of the North Riding of Yorkshire).

Divisional Councils.

Bristol Divisional Hospitals Council.

Surrey Divisional Hospitals Council.

The Trustees have allocated funds to the above-mentioned Regional and Divisional Councils to enable them to make grants in respect of hospital and ancillary medical services in their areas. It is anticipated that several further Regional and Divisional Councils, now in process of formation, will be fully constituted during 1941.

The following examples of activities which are being undertaken by Hospital Councils may be of interest :—

(a) The survey of hospital services on a regional or divisional basis with the object of preparing a comprehensive report on the existence of duplication or overlapping or the necessity for the development of new services or the extension of services already available.

(b) The organisation of divisional Blood Transfusion Services.

(c) The organisation of a divisional system of Ear, Nose and Throat Clinics. This arrangement is intended to provide a system of clinics in a number of district hospitals in association with the Ear, Nose and Throat Department of the " key " hospital in the Division.

(d) The organisation of a system of transfer of convalescent patients from the "key" hospital to other hospitals within the Division. The result of this arrangement is to reduce the period of occupation of beds in the "key" hospital, thus freeing these beds for the occupation of other patients requiring specialist treatment, unobtainable in other hospitals in the Division. The system has the further advantage of ensuring that available accommodation in other hospitals is utilised to the fullest possible extent.

One Regional Council has approved proposals for the establishment of both Pathological and Accident Services on a Regional and Divisional basis respectively, and similar proposals are receiving consideration in other areas.

In addition there have been two interesting developments in the Berks, Bucks and Oxon Region.

(a) The Regional Hospitals Council has conferred with representatives of the County Boroughs and County Councils in the area. This conference passed a unanimous recommendation that the Local Authorities concerned should adopt the policy of making grants to Voluntary Hospitals under Section 181 (3) of the Public Health Act, 1936, through the Regional Hospitals Council. It was further recommended that these Local Authorities should consider the advisability of making these grants on a uniform rateable basis. The result of this conference has been that the Regional Council has received contributions under the Act from all the County Councils and County Borough Councils within the Region in respect of the financial year commencing 1st April, 1941.

(b) The Oxford City and Oxfordshire County Councils have considered a report on hospital accommodation in the Oxford area compiled by the local Divisional Hospitals Council and have adopted the following recommendations:—

(i) That the need for the provision of additional hospital accommodation in the district be admitted.

(ii) That the City Council provisionally agree to provide, when conditions permit, the additional hospital accommodation required, jointly with the Oxfordshire County Council under the powers conferred by the Public Health Acts.

(iii) That the Joint Hospitals Board (the Divisional Hospitals Council) be asked to submit a scheme in detail for the provision of the accommodation required to meet immediate and future needs, for examination, in the first place, by the representatives of the Oxford City and Oxfordshire County Councils appointed to attend the discussions held on October 17th, 1940.

Further progress has been made in the early part of 1941. In the north, a Yorkshire Regional Hospitals Council has been formed in Leeds and a constitution for a Regional Hospitals Council is being drafted in the Sheffield area. Preliminary contacts have been established with voluntary hospital organisations in the East and West Midlands and in East Anglia. In the south, preliminary negotiations have been commenced with a view to the formation of Regional Hospital Councils for Bristol and the West of England and for an area which would include Kent, Surrey and Sussex.

OTHER ACTIVITIES OF THE NUFFIELD TRUST.

(1) Hospital Enquiries and Surveys.

At the request of the governing bodies of the hospitals concerned, remitted through the appropriate Regional Hospitals organisation, committees of the Trust have visited hospitals in the Berks, Bucks and Oxon and South-Western Regions. The reports of the visiting committees in regard to the services and financial position of the hospitals have been considered by the trustees and have resulted in financial assistance being afforded by the Trust subject to certain recommendations of the Enquiry Committees being carried out. The Trust has since been invited to carry out surveys of the available hospital and medical services in two other areas.

(2) Grants in Respect of Hospital and Ancillary Medical Services.

Though the attention of the trustees has been mainly directed towards assisting the formation of Hospitals Councils, several substantial contributions have been authorised, payable through Regional Hospitals Councils, in respect of voluntary hospitals and ancillary medical services. Applications for financial assistance, which are normally remitted through Regional and Divisional organisations, are periodically considered by the trustees and announcements of further grants will be made from time to time.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

By THE LORD PLENDER, G.B.E., LL.D., F.C.A.

In 1939 the voluntary hospitals in the London area, as shown in the directory, numbered 158, from which the required data has been received in 153 cases; in the Provinces 751, from which data has been received of 607; in Scotland 124, from which data has been received of 75, and in Ireland 58, from which data has been received of 32; and it is regrettable to point out once more that apart from London the furnished figures are lamentably short even allowing for the difficult conditions under which the Administrative Staffs are now working. The lack of returns in the Provinces, Scotland and Ireland is partly explained by the exclusion of figures of 126 hospitals whose accounts are not based upon the calendar year, though the need for adopting the calendar year to try to secure uniformity has been stressed over and over again, but has been unheeded by many of the hospitals. In these cases no figures are included in the Tables.

As will be seen from the General Summary, the Total Income of the Voluntary Hospitals for 1939 was £18,281,801 and the Total Expenditure £18,695, 649 resulting in a deficiency of £413,848. This deficiency compares with a deficiency of £277,307 in 1938 and £487,763 in 1937.

Table 4 (London) shows that the total gifts and other receipts on Maintenance for the year 1939 resulted in a surplus of Receipts over Expenditure of £60,975, as compared with a deficit in 1938 of £114,131; for the Provinces a surplus of £645,734 in 1939 as compared with £439,072 in 1938; for Scotland a surplus of £206,462 as compared with £123,802 in 1938 and for Ireland a deficiency of £69,510 as compared with a deficiency in 1938, of £21,210. The Grand Totals show (including London) a surplus in 1939 of £843,661 as compared with £427,533 in 1938 and £784,999 in 1937, although, as will be seen from Table No. 3, the percentage of hospitals having surpluses dropped from 68 in 1937 to 63 in 1938 and 60 in 1939. The receipts from subscriptions, donations and collections in the Grand Totals, Table 4, amount to £3,254,865, which show a reduction of £336,407 as compared with 1938 and a reduction of £383,350 as compared with 1937.

The Free Legacies amounted to £1,721,073 in 1939 as compared with £1,880,082 in 1938 and £1,877,793 in 1937. The Ear-marked Legacies amounted to £401,208 in 1939; £764,218 in 1938 and £903,942 in 1937. The hospitals received in addition the sum of £1,933,258 in donations for Capital purposes in 1939; £2,301,537 in 1938 and £2,527,037 in 1937.

These figures are remarkable in showing the steadiness of the voluntary assistance given, but it must be noted that there is a tendency for the Expenditure to increase at a greater rate than Receipts, with the result that the deficiency on the working of some of the London hospitals, in particular, is becoming a serious problem. Whilst the total figures of Receipts and Expenditure during 1937, 1938 and 1939 may not cause undue concern, there are cases of individual hospitals whose continuance in face of recurring deficits gives cause for anxiety. I cannot refrain from expressing a personal opinion that the heavy taxation due to the war is bound to affect adversely the flow of subscriptions and donations and also legacies.

The war damage to hospitals is of grave concern, and though the Government may help in re-building and equipment, it can only alleviate the problem.

The voluntary hospitals may, therefore, be faced with a two-fold difficulty, and to finance them by resort to loans, without adequate commercial security to offer, will prove impossible, beyond a limited and measurable figure.

A partial remedy may be found in having regional controlling organisations which should be not only advisory, but have power in case of proved need to exercise a measure of control over expenditure. This method may not be acceptable to many hospitals, and in those cases it may be necessary to ask local authorities to assist out of the rates.

These suggestions may not, however, prove adequate in existing conditions and after the war, and it may therefore become necessary for the State to make grants in aid to the voluntary hospitals.

No short review could cover the wide and varying conditions of hospitals administered throughout the country; but the many tables in this volume should give to the Boards of Management much valuable information. The main question is the future of the Voluntary Hospital System, and the Sankey Report of April 1937, which considered their future, recommended, as a means of improving the hospital system, Regional Councils and a Central Council, which are now being promoted by the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust in consultation with the Ministry of Health. I am persuaded that such a course should help to solve the difficulties.

King Edward's Hospital Fund for London has for many years past fulfilled for London, with great success, the functions which the Nuffield Trust is beginning to exercise in the Provinces.

WAR SHELTER HYGIENE

By THE LORD HORDER, G.C.V.O., M.D., F.R.C.P.

When, in August and September of last year, the air raids came in all their fury, London and many large provincial towns were faced simultaneously with two results for which they were quite unprepared: a large number of homeless people who wanted some sort of protection and an even larger number who, losing all faith in their homes, whether they had, or had not, some form of domestic shelter, ran to earth. There is a point past which, in times of crisis, the people will not drill. Policy or no policy, these two masses of people streamed into any underground shelter that seemed to them to be safe. "Seemed to be safe," I said, because again and again they chose places which were quite insecure and not infrequently under such military objectives as overhead railway stations and the like. They tramped long distances to reach the shelter of their faith; oft-times this was a haven that was traditional from the last war. They queued up outside, in the rain, as it frequently was, and later in the snow, carrying their bedding and various articles needed for the night. This they did day after day, an hour or so before the "blitz" was expected. Instead of the casual and temporary protection by day which had been met by the provision of surface public and communal domestic shelters in which people might sit or stand, the nightly air-raid attacks called for all-night dormitory protection. For this the surface shelters were not adapted. Nor were the large underground shelters of the people's own choice. Thus there arose, and quickly attained alarming proportions, a situation full of hygienic hazards.

The serious risks to the common health were early recognised by the two central authorities concerned. An investigating and advisory committee undertook a rapid survey, reported and made a series of recommendations. There were two outstanding facts: a state of gross overcrowding, and its being, as yet, nobody's job to so condition these places as to make them fit for habitation. Some confusion as between the three authorities involved—the ministries, the regional commissioners and the borough officials—was perhaps inevitable. That the onus eventually lay with the local authorities was accepted, but the serious restriction of personnel and material imposed a tiresome lag upon the implementation of the recommendations mentioned.

Though at the centre, guidance and assurance of financial responsibility were quickly forthcoming, at the periphery execution was tardy. "Priority" was pleaded to an extent which harmonised rather badly with our reiterated assurance to the civilians that they were "in the front rank." The test of our democratic system of local government was a severe one, and we were too nervous of giving the new concept of regionalisation full play, fearing a clash between these two interests. Complications arose from the fact that some of the largest places chosen by the public for night shelter were private property, which had been invaded willy-nilly.

A great administrator once said that "expediency is the object of all statesmanship," and that "political action is good or bad according to its consistency, not with theory, but with circumstance." The shelter problem has been a good example of this dictum.

Certain guiding principles may be mentioned. Those "optimum standards" which make such a strong appeal, were quite unattainable. We had to start with minimal standards and improve on those gradually as time and the necessary personnel and materials allowed.

Two concurrent policies had constantly to be kept in view—a short-term policy, by which first aid was applied to the grosser insanitary conditions so as to reduce these as quickly as possible; and a long-term policy, by which the largest and most unhygienic shelters, where the chief dangers lay, might be gradually unloaded as alternative underground protection could be found, or as the people could be weaned from mother earth and induced to disperse themselves in their domestic shelters or in domestic communal shelters which they could be persuaded to make sufficiently attractive. As the autumn and winter approached, the problem was further complicated by the fact that many "Andersons" were put out of action by flooding. Almost all the trench shelters were uninhabitable for the same reason, quite apart from their being ill adapted to dormitory use.

Thousands of surface brick shelters, from lack of amenities, did not function during the night, and, indeed, were little used by day.

Gradually the more augean of the conditions, resulting from the first few weeks of arrears, were changed. Slowly but surely the primary dangers were headed off. The burden of the work fell upon the borough medical officers of health, who have been key men in the situation throughout, the engineers, and the Regional Commissioners and their staffs. Bunking the shelters got the people off the ground, made sleep more possible for them, and spaced them out. Sanitary arrangements and regular cleansing were introduced; soft earth floors were covered by cement or asphalt; ventilation and lighting were improved. The tube railway system was an early, and a justifiably favoured, place of shelter. The chairman and staff of the London Passenger Transport Board deserve much credit for their labours in conditioning the stations and certain unused portions of the tunnels. Amongst their efforts the system of exhaust plant for the cleanly disposal of the sewage and the admirable series of medical aid posts which, as agents of the Ministry of Health, they installed, should be specially mentioned. A number of large private firms acted with similar promptness and enterprise, providing excellent dormitory accommodation for their own staffs and also for the public. I reiterate that there is no such thing as an "ideal" or "model" large underground public shelter. But some of these shelters under big industrial business premises come as near to justifying these terms as possible.

Shelters of more than 500 capacity were provided with medical aid posts, and smaller shelters were grouped around a medical aid post conveniently situated. Each medical aid post was furnished with two camp beds and at least four three-tier bunks, and were so situated in the shelter that this accommodation could be quickly increased if necessary. Two locked cupboards were provided, one for the visiting doctor and one for the nurses. Cases of infectious diseases, declared or suspect, were kept in the medical aid post for the night and either sent to hospital, or to the patient's home, in the morning. Both the doctors and the nurses were under the control of the Medical Officer of Health of the area concerned. When the necessary facilities and safeguards were assured, diphtheria immunisation was carried out by the shelter doctor, again under supervision by the Ministry of Health.

BOMBED HOSPITALS

I. THE BOMBING OF ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL.

By LT.-COL. A. P. B. IRWIN, D.S.O., M.A.

House Governor and Clerk to the Governors.

To explain clearly what happened to St. Thomas's Hospital, I must first set down some picture of the building itself.

It lies just south of Westminster Bridge on the east bank of the Thames, immediately opposite to the Houses of Parliament, and might be compared to an eight-pronged comb, of which the back stretches along the Lambeth Palace Road, and the prongs point to the river. At the south end of the hospital is another large block containing the medical school. Together the hospital and school cover about a quarter of a mile of ground, and form a target of considerable size lying along the edge of the river.

The buildings would appear capable of resisting considerable bombardment, but were in fact blown to pieces wherever they were struck by large bombs.

During the months preceding the outbreak of war, the Governors had decided upon certain precautionary measures, such as replacing the glass lantern lights over the Casualty and Out-patient departments by concrete roofs, and the preparation of an emergency operating theatre in the linen-sorting room, which occupied a very strong position in the basement. It may be noted that the impromptu design of this theatre, which is capable of accommodating four surgical teams at one time, has proved so successful that it may be instrumental in altering the design of our main theatres after the war.

Endless arguments raged round the great question of the best method of protecting glass from blast, but as most people now realise, we might have saved our breath. There seems to be no way of saving glass except by taking it out and packing it away. Many thousands of sandbags were filled and built into walls which very shortly had to be replaced by brick. Sandbags may serve their purpose in trenches; they are not heavy to carry up the line, and there is endless labour available for their replacement when they rot, but they are uneconomical in cities and become thoroughly insanitary in a very short time.

Other precautions taken by the Governors were the evacuation of the top floors of the hospital and the provision therein of additional fire-fighting appliances together with the posting of fire patrols in each block.

An elaborate system had been worked out for the evacuation of patients from the wards in the event of the lifts becoming useless. To this end fifty students of the medical school had been trained and practised, and had reached such a high degree of efficiency that a practice test proved that thirty-six patients could be brought down from wards in each of the six blocks, and parked on stretchers ready for loading on to ambulances, in just over half an hour, i.e. the patients could have been cleared at the rate of one per minute. The training given to these student stretcher-bearers proved invaluable later on as the narrative will show.

At this point it might be of interest to readers if I reproduce extracts from the hospital diary for September 1940.

Monday.

A large bomb struck Block 1, about the centre of the north side of the hospital, and caused the death of two nurses and four masseuses, who were crushed in the masonry. The remaining occupants of Gassiot House and St. Thomas's Home very fortunately escaped with shock and minor injuries from glass. The Treasurer and his household were among the latter number. The twenty-five patients in Adelaide Ward were removed to Edward Ward.

The fall of masonry on the north side of the building buried the transformer room and severed the cable, thus cutting off the only supply of direct current, and immobilising the lifts. The X-ray department was also put out of action and the gas supply began to fail.

Seventy-six patients who were sufficiently fit to be sent to their homes were discharged.

It was decided to move the remaining patients to the basement, and for that purpose Block 4 basement was converted into a female ward and Block 3 basement into a male ward. The second-floor patients were carried down first, and then the first-floor patients followed.

During the night bombing was continued, several bombs falling near the hospital, but not actually on the premises.

Tuesday.

At 9 a.m. a meeting was held at which the Treasurer, the Matron, the Clerk to the Governors, some members of the honorary staff, and the Medical Superintendent attended. Matron stated that the patients had slept very well and were all the better for their quiet night.

The Engineer had reported earlier in the morning that the water supply had failed completely, and the hospital was, therefore, without any services.

In view of the failure of the water supply, it was decided to ask the Group Officer to transfer all the patients to the sector hospitals, and eventually permission was received about noon. Buses arrived at 2 p.m. and the patients were sent to Botleys Park and Woking War Hospitals.

During the afternoon the water supply was reconnected, and the Clerk of Works and the Engineer were successful in removing sufficient debris to allow of the repair of the broken cable. During the late afternoon the basements of 2, 3 and 4 Blocks were prepared as wards for the reception of emergency cases, and eventually it was decided that Blocks 2 and 3 should each be basement wards of 25 beds, and the Block 4 basement should be used as a nurses 'dormitory'; also that the small classroom in Block 4 basement should house 7 children's cots. It was further decided that City ward should be used if more male patients were received than could be admitted to Block 2.

The night was again marked by heavy bombing, though the hospital escaped further damage.

Wednesday.

During the night the bombing was continued on a smaller scale, probably due to the intense anti-aircraft barrage.

Thursday.

Present bed state :—

Block 2 basement	25 beds
Block 3 basement	25 beds
Block 4 basement classroom	7 children's cots.

In the morning a further meeting was held, at which it was decided to re-open five wards (149 beds) during next week.

To this programme, 54 further beds will be added when possible, thus completing the opening of the ground and first-floor wards.

Friday.

Two bombs were heard to fall almost simultaneously; one struck the north side of Jericho, the night nurses' home, causing a severe fall of masonry on to the main corridor between Jericho and Block 7, and crushing the east end of E Hut. The other exploded in the Archbishop's gardens, causing damage to the roof of the squash courts and a further fall of masonry in Jericho.

Fortunately, the casualties were again slight, being one compound fracture of the femur and five cases of minor injuries. Nearly every window in Blocks 7 and 8 was shattered, but the maternity department in Lydia out-patients was untouched.

This second direct hit made the housing problem acute; new accommodation had to be found for about 60 maids and other persons who had slept in the basement of Jericho, but eventually the problem was solved by sending about 25 of them to Riddell House, and placing the mattresses for the remainder under the beds in the nurses' dormitory in the basement of Block 4.

It was agreed to make an emergency maternity ward in the weighing room in the Mothercraft basement, where no less than four babies were born during the night.

There were several alarms during the day, but the night was comparatively quiet except for the violence of our barrage, which made sleep difficult.

Sunday.

A very heavy bomb made a direct hit on the main corridor immediately south of the central hall. Fire broke out in the dispensary laboratory, but was quickly tackled and put out by the Fire Brigade.

The casualties were severe and included three killed and four severely injured, of whom one died later, and there were other cases less seriously injured. No casualties occurred amongst the patients.

The Group Officer was informed and total evacuation of the patients was arranged for 7 a.m. on Monday.

Very shortly after the explosion messengers arrived from Westminster Hospital with offers of assistance which were much appreciated, but declined.

Monday.

At our request a mobile canteen was supplied by the British Red Cross and provided very welcome tea and sandwiches for breakfast. Dr. Thompson also very kindly came to our help, and arranged that three meals a day should be served in the dining room of St. Thomas's house to all our staff.

In addition to the nurses who accompanied the patients to Botleys Park, and Woking War Hospital, all nurses not immediately required were sent on leave.

Later in the morning it was agreed that the hospital should reserve 50 casualty beds in the basement wards of Blocks 2 and 3.

The works and engineering staffs worked at high speed during the day, and by evening the basement from Block 2 to Block 4 had been cleared and blacked out, and water and electricity supplies for lighting purposes had been provided.

Tuesday.

The work continued during the day, the gas, lifts and telephone services being re-established.

During the night a violent explosion occurred, blowing out the plaster board which had been put in the windows of Block 2 basement ward, and upsetting an ether bottle, but fortunately without causing a fire. It was, therefore, necessary to inform the Group Officer that we were no longer in a position to provide the 50 casualty beds, though we would, of course, admit any serious casualty or emergency that might be brought here.

Wednesday.

The windows of the damaged wards were repaired, but it was considered prudent to defer the opening of the 50 casualty beds until a meeting of the Almoners had taken place.

A day in October.

A heavy bomb struck the Northcote Trust room, blowing up some of the rooms on the staircase of Block 7, and again wrecking City Ward. The automatic telephone exchange of the house telephone, below the Northcote Trust, was buried under masonry and debris and was put out of action. Fortunately with the exception of one or two minor cuts, no casualties were incurred, although breakfasts were still being served in St. Thomas's House.

The night was marked by almost incessant bombing, and a flow of casualties from two shelters in the neighbourhood upon which direct hits had been registered. Altogether 32 persons were admitted to the wards in addition to 20 detained for the night only, and 8 brought in dead.

During this night the new ward which had been decided upon in the old bed store was used for the first time. The name "Scutari" has been suggested for this ward owing to its likeness to the rooms in which Miss Florence Nightingale nursed the sick at that place.

A day in December.

The "Alert" sounded very early, and it was obvious that the enemy had resumed his attack on London.

Several high explosive bombs fell fairly close to the hospital, and a shower of incendiaries fell on and around the buildings. Three serious fires might have been caused—one in the timber store adjoining the carpenter's shop, one in the debris of E Hut, and one in the ruins of the medical out-patient department. All three were dealt with quickly and efficiently by the hospital voluntary fire-fighting personnel.

Another day in December.

In the evening large numbers of incendiaries were dropped on and around the hospital, while high explosive bombs, which shook the building considerably, fell quite near. Fires were started on the roof but they were all quickly extinguished by the porters and the works staff. A number of casualties were admitted.

Later the Treasurer ordered the following extract to be placed in the Diary :—

> "The hospital is not closed down. There are 70 beds in the basement and an emergency maternity unit. All out-patient departments are working as usual, though naturally under difficult conditions."

At a later date.

A number of incendiaries fell in the garage yard. No cars were lost, but the carpenter's shop was set alight and burnt out. Incendiaries also fell all over the main building; the turret of Block 7, and the adjoining roof caught fire and burned fiercely until controlled by the Fire Brigade.

A succession of bombs fell nearby, shaking the hospital continuously, and the blast blew in most of the windows at the south end, followed shortly afterwards by a similar explosion which shook the centre of the building.

The patients, and 40 casualties admitted from the raid, were temporarily accommodated in Scutari, the basement corridor, No. 4 classroom, and the canteen.

The emergency lighting installation was brought into immediate operation, as the main electricity supply failed, together with that of gas and water.

The debris between Blocks 7 and 8 caught fire again.

The Women's Voluntary Service sent down a mobile canteen, while all the patients, with the exception of five who were too ill to be moved, were evacuated to sector hospitals.

It is unbelievable, but true, that the only casualty was a female patient in Arthur ward, who had her face cut by flying glass.

At 11 a.m. a conference was held in Matron's office of those members of the honorary staff who were in the building, together with the House Governor, and the Secretary of the hospital, and the Dean of the medical school. It was decided :—

(1) That the 15 beds in Scutari should be maintained, but reserved for emergency cases, with the reservation that no emergency case should be refused.

(2) That all out-patient clinics should be continued as usual.

(3) That Arthur ward should be re-opened as soon as possible, probably in three weeks' time.

The Diary shows that the hospital has been struck repeatedly by heavy bombs, and opinions differ as to whether this was the result of accurate bombing or of pure mischance. If the bombing was accurate, it may have been attracted by the many skylights of the hospital glittering in the moonlight, and this may be an additional reason for removing all glass skylights, and for replacing them with concrete.

On the question of camouflage there also are two schools of thought. Some people consider that all prominent buildings should be camouflaged, and some maintain that to do so is to invite bombing, on the supposition that any such building is being used for war purposes. No attempt was made to camouflage the hospital. If it is decided to camouflage, it should be remembered that it is not enough to paint bands of neutral colours in weird patterns on the walls and roofs; something must also be done to black out the shadows cast by the building.

The boiler room is a potential source of great danger, and it is a wise precaution to turn off all steam when an alert is sounded. The danger is thus confined to the vicinity of the boiler house, and removed from the many other parts of the building to which steam is normally taken.

The Governors spent a great deal of money on bricking up the windows of the basement and ground floor of the hospital, a precaution which has proved its value over and over again, particularly when the bomb fell between our two remaining wards, in which some patients would undoubtedly have been killed or severely injured, if it had not been for the bricked-in windows. These should have rows of ventilator bricks at intervals; they are quite efficient in supplying an adequate flow of fresh air, and serve to reduce the effect of blast upon the wall in which they are set, by allowing the pressures on either side of the wall to be equalised more rapidly than would otherwise be the case.

It has long been in the minds of some hospital administrators that it might be advisable for hospitals situated in large towns to open country branches, where patients could be nursed in pleasant and peaceful surroundings, and to retain at the parent hospitals only certain beds for emergency cases, and the out-patient departments. This will, no doubt, be one of the vital problems that will come up for discussion when the blessings of peace have again been restored to us.

Meanwhile the bombing to which this hospital has been subjected has forced the Governors to look for accommodation, for the majority of their in-patients, in the country. By agreement with the Ministry of Health and the London County Council, the Governors have been enabled to take over the hutted portion of a sanatorium in Surrey, where they have established their main in-patient section, under the name of St. Thomas's Hospital. Here beds are available, under the care of the honorary staff of the hospital, for civilian sick as well as for casualties.

It is the intention of the Governors to maintain, in addition to the new in-patient centre at Godalming, a few beds in London for the reception of casualties and acute medical and surgical cases of all kinds, as well as the normal out-patient services in London.

II. THE BOMBING OF COVENTRY AND WARWICKSHIRE HOSPITAL.

By S. CECIL HILL, G.M., F.C.I.S., F.H.O.A.
House Governor and Secretary.

THERE are doubtless few, to-day, who have not grown accustomed to the wail of the air-raid siren, followed shortly afterwards by the "throb-throb" of enemy planes overhead. To some this has more often meant only a passing disturbance—but to others it has been the prelude to an experience which will never be forgotten.

The Coventry and Warwickshire Hospital, its fine buildings shattered, its once busy wards desolate, is for all practical purposes out of commission. I have seen my colleagues on the hospital staff, and our patients, killed around me; at the same time, I have been privileged to witness courage of which hitherto I have only read and, perhaps, not fully believed in.

I have been requested by the editor to write a short account of our experiences in hospital during a severe air attack, and in order to present a true picture, it is necessary to summarise briefly the arrangements operating here in connection with our services both as a civilian hospital and under the Emergency Medical Service scheme.

As a Class 1A hospital, we deal with both air-raid casualties and civilian sick. We also run a first aid post which forms a unit of the local Air Raid Precautions services, although it is staffed and administered by the hospital. Members of the honorary medical staff have been formed into teams of three, comprising an Honorary Surgeon, Honorary Physician and Honorary Anæsthetist. Each team does one week's night duty in every four; the period of duty extends daily from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m., and the teams are provided with accommodation in the hospital. Throughout the winter months the period starts at 6 p.m. and ends at 6 a.m. Experience has proved it essential that the Emergency Medical Service team on night duty should get to the hospital before "black-out," as after a raid has started great difficulty and danger would necessarily be experienced in attempting to get to the hospital. The resident medical staff also have specific duties to perform in connection with the first aid post, the treatment of minor surgical air-raid casualties, assisting with the reception of cases and operating or assisting in the theatres. As soon as out-patient clinics finish each day, the large out-patient hall is cleared of all forms and prepared as a casualty reception hall. Screens down the centre divide the hall into male and female sections, and in each section there are a number of wooden trestles upon which stretchers are placed as casualties are brought in. The honorary physician on duty acts as reception officer and is generally in charge of the reception hall. With him are members of the resident staff, nursing staff, and a large squad of stretcher bearers. There are also two nurses who record the admission of patients on large blackboards, and junior members of the nursing staff act as writers, taking down names and addresses of patients, diagnosis, etc. A series of coloured labels is used so that the disposal of patients may take place easily and efficiently: these labels are marked "For Urgent Operation"; "Defer Operation and Evacuate"; "Resuscitation," etc. The operating theatres are scheduled first, second, third, fourth, etc., depending upon the number of cases requiring urgent operation. The theatre on first call usually commences operating immediately, and other theatres can be called into use with the necessary theatre teams as occasion requires. Special wards have been made available as resuscitation wards, staffed with specially trained personnel, and other wards, as in the case of theatres, are earmarked for the reception of patients first, second, third, again according to requirements.

That is a picture of the hospital every day throughout the week.

I usually sleep in the hospital three nights weekly.

I was at home when the air-raid warning was sounded. It was not long before the "swish-swish" of falling incendiaries indicated that Coventry was "for it," and I immediately got out my car (which after past experience I always back into the garage) and drove to the hospital. Driving through a town after a "blitz" has started is not devoid of thrills, but I arrived quite safely, although not without incident. My first duty always is to have a talk with the honorary surgeon on duty, the receiving officer, the resident surgical officer, and then the chief engineer and other members of the fire brigade staff. I should mention that we have a fire brigade "station" at the hospital, and two motor pumps; most of the men sleep at the hospital and others who live in the vicinity generally arrive within a few minutes.

On the night in question, few high-explosive bombs were dropped early on, although there were a large number of incendiaries; indeed, at one time we thought the raid was over. We had admitted some fourteen in-patients and had dealt with about twenty or more minor surgical cases. Later, however, the raid began in earnest, and high-explosive bombs seemed to hit the building at all ends. The X-ray section of the out-patient department was apparently the first to receive a direct hit from a heavy bomb, which completely wrecked a large diagnostic room with dark room and services adjoining, killing two members of the X-ray staff and two stretcher bearers. This hit put the reception hall out of commission. Another hit was scored on the eye section, and a "near miss" made a large crater about fifteen feet from the out-patient theatres. An operation was in progress in one of the theatres, and I would like to record the account of one member of the surgical staff working in this theatre—

> "I was working on a patient who had been badly burned on the hand. The anæsthetic was being given by one of the anæsthetists, and I had the assistance of the usual theatre team. We heard the loud whistle and swish of the bomb falling, and then I found myself sitting on the floor in one corner, facing the anæsthetist, who was in a like position in the opposite corner, the theatre floor littered also with glass from the windows and with instruments and other surgical paraphernalia all around. Our eyes met across the operating table between us, and I recall a ridiculous sense of wonder because the patient could not be seen. He had been blown off the operating table, and we found him lying on the floor up against the wall, fortunately without any serious injury."

Our experience in Coventry indicates quite clearly that the only satisfactory protection against blast is to build a brick wall into the window openings, leaving no aperture of any sort, except possibly small ventilating grids in the brickwork.

It will be appreciated that during these raids it is impossible to chronicle the events with any certainty, especially as so many things happen which are witnessed only by those in the immediate vicinity at the time—events which must often go unrecorded. The electric services failed, but as all ward windows and black-out had long since been destroyed, the loss of light in the wards was not a handicap, and all theatres are provided with alternative lighting. Onwards throughout the night various ward buildings received direct hits, and the whole of the staff available worked throughout the night removing patients from the damaged wards. The great difficulty was to find somewhere to put them. Many of the patients were transferred to a basement chiefly composed of subways housing the various heating and other services. This was done not only from the point of view of additional safety for the patients, but because it was the only remaining place where any warmth could be provided.

It is quite impossible to describe in words one's experience throughout a night of a severe air attack; the movement of patients from building to building and from ward to ward is carried out under conditions of greatest difficulty. Ceilings collapse, the floors are covered inches thick in plaster and debris of all sorts; windows and doors fall across openings and corridors, so that frequently passage through the hospital is like cutting one's way through a forest. Although we had available a number of stretcher trolleys, it was impossible to use these, because nothing could be wheeled through the debris. This meant that every patient had to be carried on a stretcher, and as, with the failure of the electric services, all lifts were out of action, the difficulties can be better imagined than described.

After the direct hit on the out-patient department, we had ceased to admit cases, although a certain amount of surgical work was still going on.

In the buildings which were in use at the time (it will be recalled that in a previous raid more than half the hospital was rendered uninhabitable) the ward floors are of concrete. Visibility inside the ward is very bad because the air is filled with the dust of plaster, and it is sometimes not possible to see the full extent of the damage until the dusty haze clears away. I shall never forget the dreadful scenes in these wards, nor the tremendous courage of the staff and patients.

Usually at the outset of a raid, patients are lifted off the beds and pushed under them on their mattresses, and we found many patients still lying beneath their bedsteads, quite calm and cool and without one word of complaint or fear.

In the morning, the " All clear " was sounded. Everyone breathed a sigh of relief, and the kitchen staff and others on duty attempted to prepare some refreshments. Most of the patients and some staff with them were left in the basement, because it was still very cold and we were awaiting daylight and the arrival of ambulances to evacuate patients. Later in the morning there was a tremendous explosion as a delayed-action bomb, which had fallen into an existing crater immediately outside a ward block, exploded. This bomb had burst immediately against the wall of the basement to which the patients and staff had been taken. The scene is quite indescribable. While most of those in the vicinity dashed to the sides of the crater and began to rescue patients and members of the staff, I took rescue parties to other entrances to the subway to rescue those trapped in the basement. This dreadful finale to a night of terror greatly increased the death roll amongst patients and staff. Two doctors and seven nurses lost their lives, together with some patients. Many other patients were seriously injured, some of whom are known to have died subsequently. How everybody, young probationer nurses, staff nurses, sisters, doctors and many other helpers had kept going all through the night was amazing. To face this new calamity required a courage which I am quite sure can easily be appreciated.

I can find no words of higher tribute to the staff of the hospital than by quoting the following by Rudyard Kipling—" If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew to serve their turn long after they have gone, and so hold on when there is nothing in you except the will which says to them, ' Hold on ' " . . .

Many administrative officials and members of committees of other hospitals have visited Coventry, and usually I have been asked " In what way have we found it necessary to alter or modify our arrangements in the light of experience ? ", and my reply invariably is that it is quite impossible to take any steps or make any preparations to deal with and treat patients during the type of raid which is now being experienced. Where we had treatment rooms, there are, in fact, no treatment rooms. Where we arranged for reception wards, there are, in fact, no wards; there is, in fact, no hospital which could operate in these conditions. The remedy obviously is that no hospital inside a town which may be a target area should be used for the reception and treatment of hospital cases, either civilian or air raid casualties, except possibly if that hospital happens to be on the outskirts of the town, when there is not the same degree of danger. The Coventry and Warwickshire Hospital is, or was, situated in the heart of an industrial city, surrounded on all sides by large factories. I believe several other hospitals have suffered similarly, although I trust not so severely as Coventry. There is a great need for the removal of hospital services to the country, or certainly to areas within a few miles of the towns. If this is done, then hospital services may continue to function. Otherwise, the expensive apparatus and plant which make the hospitals may be destroyed overnight. We have been fortunate inasmuch as only one big X-ray plant was destroyed. The other plants have been salvaged and are not greatly damaged. Finally the fact which faces us is that out of fourteen main wards, we have not one ward which is now usable; our boiler house has gone, our laundry has gone, our maids' home is destroyed, our nurses' home and pathological laboratory severely damaged, and not one of the various buildings which make up the hospital is immediately habitable.

It is now our task to provide accommodation outside the City and yet within reasonable access of the population, so that our services as a hospital may be continued.

AUXILIARY HOSPITALS AND CONVALESCENT HOMES IN WAR TIME

By SIR ALFRED WEBB-JOHNSON, C.B.E., D.S.O., T.D., F.R.C.S.

President of the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

In the early summer of 1940, in order to increase the available hospital accommodation in case of emergency, the Ministry of Health invited the War Organisation of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John to obtain approximately 20,000 beds in private houses. It was considered that 10,000 beds would be needed for convalescent Service patients and 10,000 in auxiliary hospitals for air-raid casualties and civilian sick, excluding the chronic sick and infectious cases. It was arranged that, if possible, each home should have accommodation for at least fifty patients and staff. The auxiliary hospitals or convalescent homes would not be hospitals of first instance, and would not require to be equipped with operating theatres, etc., but would need to be suitable for the care of convalescent patients including those in the early stage of convalescence and still confined to bed.

The conversion of a private house into an auxiliary hospital of this character entails certain essential adaptations. In the first instance it has to be ascertained that accommodation is sufficient for patients and staff, that the water supply, which has been adequate for the needs of ordinary residential occupation, will be enough for the increased number, and that the drainage can cope with the additional load. Essential requisites which are generally found to be insufficient are the sanitary accommodation and facilities for washing and bathing. Additional lavatories and bathrooms generally have to be installed. If the sanitary arrangements will allow of it, it is well to instal a bedpan sluice, but if this cannot be done, then an adaptor may be fitted to the down pipe from the cistern over one of the W.C.'s, and this can then be used both as a W.C. and for the cleansing of bedpans. The disadvantage of this arrangement is that the plug has to be pulled twice when used as a bedpan cleanser, once to flush out the bedpan and again to flush out the W.C. Sometimes an existing sink can be used for this purpose, but only if it is connected with a foul drain. On no account should a sink be used for this purpose if the outflow is connected with an ordinary clean drain.

The next item in domestic economy which requires careful estimate of its capacity is the kitchen installation. It may be necessary to instal additional cooking apparatus, and as a general rule Esse or Aga stoves have been used for this purpose. If, however, gas is available, it is easier to instal additional gas cooking apparatus.

If convalescent Service patients are being admitted a corporal of the R.A.M.C. is attached for disciplinary purposes, and for making arrangements about transfer of patients to hospital, to convalescent depots or to duty.

In a certain number of homes which will take a number of patients approaching 100, a physical training instructor is added to the staff with the idea that patients in a later stage of convalescence will be completely re-habilitated without delay. Homes being used for this type of work are earmarked for a special class of patient so that the physical training instructor will be kept fully employed.

Physiotherapy is frequently required for certain types of illness and injury, but it is a serious strain on available skilled personnel to attempt to provide for this special work in every home. To overcome the difficulty patients of a suitable type are concentrated in specially selected homes fully staffed and equipped for all remedial treatment. As an alternative, or in addition, mobile physio-therapy units with masseuses and technicians are based on a conveniently situated home. Staff and equipment are taken to other homes for certain hours of the day or certain days of the week.

Through the Joint County Committees of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John close on 15,000 beds have already been arranged for by the War Organisation to meet the request of the Ministry of Health. Nearly 10,000 of these beds are already opened in houses which have been adapted and equipped for the purpose, and close on 40 per cent. of these beds are already occupied. It will be appreciated therefore that the War Organisation, owing to its ability to de-centralise the work to the County Committees throughout England and Wales, has made a large contribution to the solution of this difficult war problem of providing additional hospital accommodation.

Nos. 156 to 160 inclusive, which have been published since the last issue of the Year-Book, follow.

Sets of the Memoranda can be obtained from the Joint Secretaries of the Bureau, 12, Grosvenor Crescent, London, S.W. 1, at an inclusive charge of 12*s.* 6*d.* the set, and to meet several requests arrangements have been made to supply files with stiff covers resembling a book at 2*s.* 6*d.* each, including Purchase Tax. These files have strong grips inside and it is not necessary to perforate the Memoranda. Three files are necessary for a set of Memoranda.

Single copies can also be obtained at a small charge.

MEDICAL REPORTS AND CERTIFICATES.

Legal Position.

1. There is no legal obligation on a hospital or its medical officers to give medical reports or certificates relating to patients to any outside person.

2. The only legal method of obliging a medical officer to give information about a patient is to subpœna him to appear in Court to give evidence there—subject to any objection he may raise on the ground that his information is confidential.

3. A subpœna neither requires nor authorises the medical officer to give any information to anyone otherwise than in Court.

Consent of Patient Necessary.

4. In no case should any medical report or other information relating to a patient's condition be given to any person without the patient's previous consent, preferably in writing.

5. The giving of such information without the patient's consent would be a breach of professional confidence.

6. Form I at the end of this memorandum (which includes an express consent in writing to be signed by the patient) is based on the form used by a large London hospital, and no report is supplied unless an application is made in this form.

Reports and Certificates usually Supplied.

7. In practice, of course, hospitals or their medical officers are usually quite ready to give reports or certificates that are required in proper cases, with the patient's consent, and on the payment of reasonable fees.

8. Every medical report should be made by the medical officer in charge of the case, or (in simple cases) by the resident medical officer when authorised by the medical officer in charge so to do.

9. The following paragraphs give some idea of the usual practice at hospitals as to giving such reports and certificates, and the fees charged. The fees quoted are based on returns which have kindly been sent in by a considerable number of hospitals.

Fees Receivable by Medical Officers.

10. It is the usual practice for hospitals to allow their medical officers to receive the fees charged for the reports prepared by them. These fees are sometimes collected by the hospitals on their behalf.

11. The fee chargeable for a medical report is commonly limited to two guineas. It is, however, usual to consider the circumstances of the patient in each case, and to charge him a fee according to his means—or perhaps no fee at all.

Workmen's Compensation Cases.

12. The Workmen's Compensation Acts provide that, when an injured workman is making a claim against his employer for compensation, the employer is entitled to require that he shall be medically examined by a medical practitioner, appointed and paid by the employer. If and so long as the workman refuses to submit to such examination, he will not be entitled to recover any compensation.

13. More usually, however, the employer or his insurers apply to the hospital where the workman is being treated for a medical report on his condition, and if the patient consents, this is supplied on payment of the usual fee by the employer. Obviously the workman should not be called upon to pay this fee.

14. A workman sometimes complains that a report of the medical officer has had the effect of causing his compensation to be discontinued, for which he blames the hospital. To obviate this it would be possible to make a rule that no medical officer shall send a report to any outside authority unless its effect has first been explained to the patient and he desires it to be forwarded.

Road Accident Cases.

15. At one large London hospital, whenever a patient injured in a car accident requires a medical report to support his claim for compensation, the hospital charges him the usual fee of two guineas for the report. The fee is only collected, however, (and paid over to the medical officer who made the report) if the patient is successful in his claim. If he is not successful, the hospital itself pays a fee of 10*s.* 6*d.* to the medical officer who makes the report. The justification for this payment is that, having regard to the rights conferred on hospitals by the Road Traffic Acts, the hospital is directly interested in the success of the claim made by the patient.

MEDICAL REPORTS AND CERTIFICATES

Newspaper Insurance Cases.

16. A patient often requires a medical certificate to enable him to recover compensation under a newspaper insurance scheme. As the amount recoverable by the patient in such cases is generally small, it is usual to charge the patient only a small fee for the required certificate. The usual fee is 5*s*., but the amount may depend on the circumstances.

Cremation Certificates.

17. When it is desired that a body should be cremated, two medical certificates are required. One must be given by the deceased's medical attendant, and the other, a confirmatory certificate, by another medical practitioner.

18. When these certificates are given by the medical officers of a hospital, a fee not exceeding one guinea is usually charged for each certificate.

"Unfit to Work" Certificates.

19. Certificates of unfitness to work should only be given by the resident medical officer. It is unusual to make any charge for them.

"Admission and Discharge" Certificates.

20. Certificates giving the dates of admission and discharge are signed either by the resident medical officer or by the secretary. A fee of 1*s*. is sometimes charged, but they are more often given free.

General Information.

21. A need is often felt for some form of report on a patient which is not a regular medical report, but which gives a general idea of the patient's condition, e.g., to enable an employer to know whether his workman in hospital is so seriously injured that it will be necessary to engage another workman to replace him. It is suggested that Form IV might be used in such cases.

PERSONAL INJURIES (CIVILIANS) SCHEME

AND HOW HOSPITALS ARE AFFECTED BY ITS PROVISIONS.

1. Voluntary hospitals now have a large number of voluntary and paid workers carrying out duties either in extension of the hospitals' ordinary peace-time services or in new services created to meet the demands of the war.

2. The chief effect of the Personal Injuries (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1939, so far as hospitals are concerned, is to release them from liability under the Employers' Liability and similar Acts to any "gainfully occupied" employee who sustains a war injury * and to any member of a "civil defence organisation" who is injured in the course of carrying out his duties as such member, whether by war action or otherwise. Provision is made for the payment of compensation † by the Minister of Pensions to persons sustaining war injuries or war service injuries.*

3. The above-mentioned Act and the Scheme made thereunder by the Minister of Pensions distinguish between services recognised as "civil defence organisations" and other services not so recognised. The only services likely to be established by hospitals and recognised as civil defence organisations are those mentioned in Sections II, III (a) and IV, below. Those mentioned in Sections I and III (b) are not so recognised.

4. Members of civil defence organisations claiming compensation for war service injuries must be able to prove their membership, and it is therefore incumbent on hospitals to see that all persons working for them in any such capacity are properly enrolled in an appropriate organisation.

5. All that is really needed is to provide some method of establishing definitely who are members of each organisation, and ensuring that the members are aware of their membership. For this purpose it should be sufficient to keep a register, with a number of pages allotted to each organisation, each page being ruled in columns, for which the headings might be :

(1) Name of member.
(2) Date of enrolment.
(3) Signature of member.
(4) Resignation { (a) Date of ceasing to be a member. (b) Signature of member, or of secretary of hospital.

6. It may also be thought desirable, for the convenience of the members, that each member should be supplied with a certificate of enrolment, which might be in the form :

This is to certify that..... of.....was enrolled as a member of the.....Organisation of the.....Hospital on the..... day of.....194....

Date .....

Signature of Secretary of hospital.....

Signature of member .....

7. The following paragraphs deal with the various categories of workers in new or extended services, indicating what steps (if any) hospitals should take with regard to each category, and also to whom the different categories should look for the payment of compensation in case of physical injury.

I.

Normal Peace-time Staff.

Hospitals have no action to take with regard to this category of workers unless they are concerned with any of the services mentioned in the following sections.

The only change of legal relations between a hospital and its normal peace-time staff is that, in the event of any paid employee sustaining a war injury, the hospital will not be liable to pay him compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, but the employee must apply for compensation to the Minister of Pensions.

This applies to all voluntary hospitals, whether comprised in the Emergency Hospital Scheme or not.

* A "war injury" means any physical injury caused by enemy action, or by combating the enemy, or in repelling an imagined attack, or by aircraft, whether our own, allied, or enemy.

A "war service injury" means any physical injury incurred by a member of a civil defence organisation arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as such member.

† In any case where an allowance is paid to a hospital employee by the Ministry of Pensions the hospital is entitled to deduct the amount of this allowance from the employee's wages or from any money paid to him by way of emoluments.

II.

Emergency Medical Service.
Civil Nursing Reserve.
Persons being trained for the Civil Nursing Reserve.

Hospitals need take no steps with regard to the establishment of these services, as they have been organised already and their members enrolled, either by the Ministry of Health or by various authorities acting under that Ministry.

Members of these services should, however, be looked upon as employees of the hospital for the purpose of third-party risks. As regards insurance against this risk, and the recovery of the cost from the Ministry of Health, see paras. 13 and 14.

Members of these services should apply to the Ministry of Pensions for compensation in the case of any injury sustained in the course of carrying out their duties.

Members of these services need not necessarily be employed at hospitals which are comprised in the Emergency Hospital Scheme.

III.

Services Maintained by a Hospital to Carry Out Duties Connected with the Work of that Hospital.

These services cover such categories as workers at canteens for out-patients, volunteer drivers of patients, and other categories of helpers not falling under any other head. It is important to distinguish between unpaid and paid workers in these services.

(a) Unpaid Workers. Hospitals should establish unpaid workers as a civil defence organisation (see para. 5).

Members are to be considered as unpaid notwithstanding they are provided with board and lodging, or receive a subsistence allowance, or have their expenses or insurance contributions paid or any loss of wages or other emoluments made good to them. Volunteer stretcher-bearers, however, who have been recruited and are remunerated under the conditions set out in the Ministry of Health circular No. 1990 are to be considered as paid.

These services can only be established as civil defence organisations at hospitals which are comprised in the Emergency Hospital Scheme.

Members of these services should apply to the Ministry of Pensions for compensation in the case of any injury incurred in the course of carrying out their duties.

Members of these services should be considered as employees of the hospital for the purpose of third-party risks. As regards insurance against this risk, and recovery of the cost from the Ministry of Health, see paras. 13 and 14.

(b) Paid Workers. These must not be enrolled as members of a civil defence organisation even though they are doing the same work as the unpaid volunteers. They should be considered as being ordinary paid employees of the hospital, and they may be assimilated to category I above.

IV.

Services Maintained by a Hospital for the Protection of the Hospital and its Inmates against Enemy Action.

The definition covers A.R.P. services and any other similar defensive services.

Any such service will only be recognised as a civil defence organisation if it ordinarily has at least six members who have been properly trained and are equipped to give first aid, to deal with the effects of gas, and to fight fire. If it has such trained members, the hospital should establish the service as a civil defence organisation (see para. 5). In the event of injury in the course of carrying out their duties members should present their claims for compensation to the Ministry of Pensions.

But if the service has not the necessary number of trained workers, the Ministry of Pensions will not be responsible for compensation (except for war injuries), but the hospital will be liable therefor under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

In either case the hospital will be responsible for the negligence of members of these services. See paras. 13 and 14 as to insurance against this risk and recovery of the cost.

These provisions apply to all hospitals, whether comprised in the Emergency Hospital Scheme or not.

Hospital's Liability for Injuries to Workers.

8. A hospital is not liable to pay compensation to any of its workers for any war injury. Nor is it liable to pay compensation to workers in Categories II, III (a), or IV (if recognised as a civil defence organisation) for any injury incurred in carrying out their duties in those services.

PERSONAL INJURIES (CIVILIANS) SCHEME

9. A hospital is, however, liable to pay compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act for injuries incurred by workers in Categories I, III (b), and IV (if not recognised as a civil defence organisation). Hospitals which usually insure against this risk should satisfy themselves that they are covered as regards their liability to workers in these categories.

10. Any hospital that is comprised in the Emergency Hospital Scheme can include any extra cost of insurance, necessitated by increase of staff for the purposes of the scheme, in its periodical Statement of Expenditure, and it will be re-imbursed such extra cost by the Ministry of Health.

11. Hospitals which do not ordinarily insure against this risk should forward to the Ministry of Health full details of each individual claim for compensation made by a member of such increased staff and the Ministry will accept responsibility therefor in proper cases. But the Ministry prefers that hospitals should insure against this risk in respect of additional staff (even if they do not do so as regards their regular employees) and recover the cost of insurance in the manner described in para. 10.

Hospitals' Liability to Third Parties.

12. A hospital is liable to third parties for the negligence of all persons working for it as its agents or under its control, excepting only for the negligence of medical practitioners acting in their professional capacity.

13. Hospitals which have properly drawn policies of insurance against third-party risks should already be covered against any claims that can arise against them in respect of negligence by workers in any of the categories mentioned above. It is recommended that hospitals should satisfy themselves that they are in fact so covered. As to what is a " properly drawn " policy, see Memo. No. 56 on Insurance against Third-Party Risks, and particularly paras. 15, 16.

14. Any new or additional premiums that it may be necessary to pay to obtain cover for the negligence of new categories of workers or additional staff engaged in pursuance of the Emergency Hospital Scheme should be included under the heading of " Insurances " in the Periodical Statement of Expenditure submitted to the Ministry of Health, when a proper proportion of this cost will be recoverable from the Ministry.

December, 1940.

PURCHASE TAX.

By W. E. C. BAYNES, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

1. Purchase tax, either at the standard rate of 33⅓ per cent. or at the reduced rate of 16⅔ per cent. of the wholesale value, is now payable on a large number of commodities, a list of which is given in Schedule VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1940.

2. The tax is collected from wholesalers, but is added to the price charged by them to purchasers. Invoices must show the amount of tax charged.

3. There is no exemption under the Act in favour of hospitals or other charitable institutions.

4. The Treasury is authorised by the Act to issue lists defining exactly what goods are to be taken as falling within any particular class of goods specified in the Schedule mentioned above. The Treasury is also authorised to add to, vary or cancel the classes of goods included in the Schedule, and to make the basic rate applicable to any class of goods instead of the reduced rate, and vice versa.

5. The following paragraphs give the effect of the provisions of the Act, and of a Notice (No. 78) issued by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise indicating what goods are considered to be subject to the tax, but only those articles are included here which a voluntary hospital is likely to purchase for the purposes of the hospital as such.

6. "Wholesale Value." The "wholesale value," on which the tax is chargeable, is the price charged by a wholesaler to a retailer. If a hospital is supplied with goods at a specially cheap rate, the tax will still usually be chargeable on the higher rate charged to retailers. But if the goods are put up in special packs for hospitals, which are larger than those supplied to the trade and which are not available for retailers, then the Commissioners have decided that the purchase tax shall only be charged on the invoice price to the hospital.

Bromethol.
Chloroform (anæsthetic).
Cocaine and salts of cocaine.
Desoxycorticosterone acetate.
Ether (anæsthetic).
Ethyl chloride.
Hexobarbitone.
Insulin.
Liver extract and active principles of liver.
Oxygen.
Pituitary extract.
Procaine and salts of procaine.
Sulphanilaminide and its derivatives.
Suprarenal cortex extract.
Sera.
Vaccines.
Hormones, natural or synthetic, and preparations thereof, including liver extracts and active principles of liver, and insulin and its compounds with protamin and zinc.
(b) Simple drugs and single chemical compounds, if not put up for medicinal or toilet use. The Commissioners have made a list of these which is given at the end of this Memorandum.
(c) Cinchona bark, cassia pods, capsicum, and similar natural raw materials, not prepared or put up as drugs or medicines.

APPENDIX.

The Commissioners of Customs and Excise give the following list of simple drugs and single chemical compounds as being exempt from tax:

Acetaldehyde.
Acetic acid, glacial.
Acetic anhydride.
Acetone.
Acetophenone.
Acetylene.
Agar.
Alcohol.
Alcohol, dehydrated.
Alcohol, dilute.
Alphanaphthol.
Aluminium hydroxide.
Aluminium salts.
Amidol.
Ammonia, strong soln. of Ammonium salts.
Amyl acetate.
Amyl alcohol.
Amyl phthalate.
Amyl salicylate.
Amyl tartrate.
Anethole.
Aniline.
Anisic aldehyde.
Antimony, black purified.
Antimony, butter of.
Antimony oxide.
Antimony, sulphurated.
Arsenic acid.
Arsenic triiodide.
Arsenic trioxide.
Barium salts.
Benzaldehyde.
Benzene.
Benzidine.
Benzine.
Benzoic acid.
Benzol.
Benzophenone.
Benzoyl peroxide.
Benzyl acetate.
Benzyl alcohol.
Benzyl benzoate.
Benzyl succinate.
Betanaphthol.
Betanaphthyl benzoate.
Betanaphthyl salicylate.
Bismuth, precipitated.
Bismuth hydroxide.
Bismuth oxide.
Bismuth salts, except emetine and bismuth iodide.
Bordeaux B.
Boric acid.
Brilliant Green.
Bromauric acid.
Bromine.
Bromoform.
Butyl acetate.
Butyl alcohol.
Butyl phthalate.
Butyl tartrate.
Cadmium iodide.
Calcium hydroxide.
Calcium oxides.
Calcium salts, except acetylsalicylate glycerophosphate.
Camphor.
Caramel.
Carbon dioxide.
Carbon disulphide.
Carbon tetrachloride.
Carmine.
Carvone.
Casein, soluble.
Cerium oxalate.
Charcoal, activated.
Charcoal, animal.
Chloral hydrate.
Chloramine.
Chlorinated lime.
Chloroform.
Chlorophyll.
Cholesterol.
Chromium trioxide.
Cinnamic acid.
Cinnamic alcohol.
Cinnamic aldehyde.
Citral.
Citric acid.
Citronellal.
Citronellol.
Colophony.
Copper salts.
Coumarin.
Cresol.
Crystal violet.
Cyclohexane.
Cyclohexanol.
Cyclohexanone.
Cyclohexanyl acetate.
Decyclic aldehyde.
Dextrin.
Dextrose.
Diacetone alcohol.
Diastase.
Diatomite.
Dichloramine.
Dichlorbenzenes.
Dichlorethylene.
Diethyleneglycolmonoethylether.
Duodecyclic aldehyde.
Eosin.
Ether.
Ether ozonic.
Ethyl acetate.
Ethyl bromide.
Ethyl iodide.
Ethyl lactate.
Ethyl phthalate.
Ethyl salicylate.
Ethylene.
Ethylene dibromide.
Ethylene dichloride.
Ethylene glycol.
Eucalyptol.
Ethylene glycol monoethylether.
Eucalyptol, chlorinated.
Eugenol.
Ferric chloride.
Ferrous sulphate.
Fluorescein, soluble.
Formaldehyde, soln. of.
Formic acid.
Gallic acid.
Gelatin.
Geraniol.
Geranyl acetate.
Glucose, liquid.
Glycerin.
Gold chloride.
Halazone.
Heliotropin.
Hexamine.
Histamine.
Hydrobromic acid.
Hydrochloric acid.
Hydrocinnamic aldehyde.
Hydrofluoric acid.
Hydrogen peroxide, soln. of.
Hydroquinone.
Hydroxycitronellal.
Hypophosphorous acid.
Indigo.
Indigo carmine.
Iodine.
Ionone.
Iron arsenate.
Iron citrate.
Iron formate.
Iron iodide.
Iron oxides.
Iron and manganese citrate.

PURCHASE TAX

Iron phosphate.
Iron pyrophosphate.
Iron reduced.
Isoeugenol.
Isopropyl alcohol.
Kaolin.
Keratin.
Lactic acid.
Lactose.
Lævulose.
Lead salts.
Linalol.
Linalyl acetate.
Lithium salts, except acetylsalicylate.
Magenta.
Magnesium hydroxide.
Magnesium oxides.
Magnesium salts, except glycerophosphate.
Malachite green.
Malic acid.
Maltose.
Manganese dioxide, precipitated.
Manganese salts, except glycerophosphate.
Menthol.
Mercury oxides.
Mercury salts.
Metaldehyde.
Methyl alcohol.
Methyl anthranilate.
Methyl benzoate.
Methyl nonyl aldehyde.
Methyl salicylate.
Methyl violet.
Methylcyclohexanol.
Methylcyclohexanone.
Methylcyclohexanyl acetate.
Methylcyclohexanyl oxalate.
Methylene blue.
Methylheptine carbonate.
Metol.
Musks, artificial.
Naphthalene.
Nicotine.
Nicotine salts.
Nitric acid.
Nitrobenzene.
Oils, fats and waxes, except :—
Chaulmoogra oil.
Chenopodium oil.
Cod liver oil.
Croton oil.
Halibut liver oil.
Hydnocarpus oil.
Hydnocarpus oil, ethyl esters of.
Liquid paraffin.
Oil scarlet.
Oleic acid.
Orange G.
Osmic acid.
Ovolecithin.
Oxalic acid.
Pancreatin.
Papain.
Paraffin, light liquid.
Paraformaldehyde.
Pentachlorethane.
Pepsin.
Peptone and peptone beef.
Petroleum, light.
Phenol.
Phenolphthalein.
Phenol red.
Phenylacetaldehyde.
Phenylene diamines.
Phenylethyl alcohol.
Phenylhydrazine hydrochloride.
Phosphoric acid.
Phosphorus.
Piperazine.
Piperidine.
Piperidine tartrate.
Potassium hydroxide.
Potassium salts, except:—
glycerophosphate.
guaiacolsulphonate.
hydroxyquinoline sulphate.
Pyridine.
Pyrogallol.
Pyrogallol, oxidised.
Pyrolignous acid.
Pyroxylin.
Radium.
Rennet.
Resorcinol.
Resorcinol monoacetate.
Saccharin.
Saccharin soluble.
Safrole.
Salicylic acid.
Salicylsulphonic acid.
Saponin.
Scarlet red sepia.
Silver nitrate.
Silver oxide.
Soap (but see Class 18 as regards toilet soap).
Sodium hydroxide.
Sodium peroxide.
Sodium salts, except :—
aminoarsenate.
cacodylate.
chaulmoograte.
desoxycholate.
glycerophosphate.
glycocholate.
morrhuate.
neoarsphenamine.
nucleate.
taurocholate.
tauroglycocholate.
(Tryparsone and thyroxin sodium are chargeable with tax.)
Solvent naphtha.
Stannic oxide.
Starches.
Stearic acid.
Storax.
Strontium bromide.
Strontium iodide.
Succinic acid.
Sucrose.
Sulphanilic acid.
Sulphur.
Sulphur chloride.
Sulphur iodide.
Sulphuric acid.
Talc, purif.
Tannic acid.
Tars.
Tartaric acid.
Tartrazine.
Terebene.
Terpin hydrate.
Terpineol.
Terpinol.
Tetrachlorethane.
Tetrachlorethylene.
Thallium acetate.
Thymol.
Titanic oxide.
Toluene.
Triacetin.
Trichloracetic acid.
Trichlorethylene.
Tricresyl phosphate.
Triethanolamine.
Triethanolamine stearate.
Trinitrophenol.
Triphenyl phosphate.
Tryamine.
Trypan blue.
Trypan red.
Trypsin.
Uranium acetate.
Uranium nitrate.
Urea.
Urease.
Urethane.
Uric acid.
Vanillin.
Xylene.
Zinc oxide.
Zinc salts.

ROAD TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS.

CLAIMS FOR EXPENSES OF TREATMENT UNDER THE ROAD TRAFFIC ACTS.

1. This Memorandum has been prepared to embody and replace all the previous Memoranda issued on the subject of the Road Traffic Acts (except No. 137), and to bring them up to date.

2. It is important to realise that hospitals have two quite distinct claims under the Road Traffic Acts, viz. :—

(1) A claim for a fixed fee of 12*s*. 6*d*. for the first "emergency" treatment given to a motor accident patient at the hospital. This claim is legally recoverable solely from the person who was using the car * at the time of the accident, and the claim must be made urgently, within seven days of the accident.

(2) A claim for the expenses of treating a motor accident patient up to a limit of £50 in the case of an in-patient or £5 in the case of an out-patient. This claim is solely recoverable from an insurance company in the circumstances explained below.

3. In practice, however, the car user's insurance company usually steps in and acts as his agent in settling the hospital's claim against him for the emergency fee of 12*s*. 6*d*. This leads hospitals to believe that their claim for this fee is directly against the insurance company, which is not the case.

4. The two claims are quite distinct, and it is important that each claim should be made to the proper person and at the proper time.

PART I

CLAIMS FOR EMERGENCY TREATMENT.

5. The Road Traffic Act, 1934, s. 16, provides that when emergency treatment is first given at a hospital to any person injured in a motor accident, the hospital shall be entitled to recover from the person using the car at the time the sum of 12*s*. 6*d*. in respect of each person so treated. If the patient has been treated or examined by a doctor on the road previously to his admission to hospital, the fee is payable to the doctor and not to the hospital.

6. "Emergency treatment" is defined as medical or surgical treatment or examination which is immediately required as a result of bodily injury. From this it appears that whenever the victim of a motor accident is taken to a hospital without having been treated or examined by a doctor on the road, then the hospital can claim the 12*s*. 6*d*. fee. It is immaterial whether the victim is subsequently treated as an in-patient or as an out-patient, or whether he requires no further treatment at all.

7. The meaning of the expression "the person using the car" may be open to doubt in some cases. If the car-owner is in the car at the time of the accident he is obviously the person using it, whether driving it himself or not. In the case of a commercial car with an employee driving, his employer is presumably the person using it. In the case of a taxi-cab, the claim should be made against the driver in the first place, but the question of liability may depend on whether he is the owner of the taxi or on what terms he is driving it.

8. The case of two or more cars being involved in the same accident is not specifically provided for, but presumably the claim for the fee may be made against the user of any car involved in the accident.

9. The great majority of accident insurance offices have, however, agreed amongst themselves which office shall ultimately be responsible for the payment of the fee in certain cases. As a result of this agreement it is anticipated that the claims of hospitals will be promptly met if they are made against the persons mentioned below :—

(a) Where the injured person was in or on a car—against the user of that car.

(b) Where the injured person was not in or on a car—against the user of the car which actually struck him.

(c) In other cases, or where the facts are not clear, the full claim should be made against the users of all the cars involved.

* Throughout this Memorandum "car" is used as a general term intended to cover every form of motor vehicle, including motor coaches, tractors, motor cycles, etc.

10. The only cars the users of which are exempt from the payment of this fee are:

(1) A motor vehicle belonging to a government department.

(2) An invalid carriage, i.e., one specially designed for use by a person suffering from physical disability, and used solely by him.

(3) A tram car or trolley vehicle the use of which is authorised by special Act of Parliament or Order.

Local authorities are not exempted from payment of the fee except in respect of cars falling within the above exceptions.

11. There is no restriction as to the persons in respect of whose treatment the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* can be claimed. It is payable in respect of any person injured in the motor accident who receives emergency treatment whether he is the driver himself, a passenger, a pedestrian, or whoever. And the fee is payable in respect of each person treated, however many persons may be injured in one accident.

12. Strictly speaking the claim for this fee should be made to the user of the car, and not direct to his insurers, but see para. 17. Although the user's liability for the fee has to be covered by insurance, this does not give the hospital any direct right against the insurance company except in the case of the user of the car becoming bankrupt. In practice, however, the user of the car generally passes on the claim made against him to his insurance company so that the claim is often in fact dealt with by the latter.

13. The claim for payment may be made to the user of the car either orally at the time when the treatment is given, or by a request in writing signed by an executive officer of the hospital and stating the name and address of the hospital, the circumstances in which the emergency treatment was given, and that it was first given at that hospital. For suggested form of claim, see paragraph 53.

14. If the request is made in writing, it must be served within seven days of the emergency treatment either by delivery to the user of the car or by prepaid registered letter addressed to him at his usual or last known address. It would be advisable to serve this written request in every case when the fee is not paid immediately on a verbal request being made.

15. A chief officer of police is bound to supply the hospital, on request, with any information which he has as to the identification marks of any car involved in the accident and as to the identity and address of the person using the car.

16. The fee of 12*s.* 6*d.*, if actually received by a hospital, operates as a discharge up to that amount of any other claim that the hospital may have in respect of the emergency treatment.

Variations of Procedure by Agreement of Insurers.

17. The preceding paragraphs state the strict legal procedure to be followed, but the great majority of accident insurance offices have agreed to certain variations in the procedure being followed by hospitals without losing their legal rights. These insurers will accept claims for the emergency treatment fee that are made to them direct by a hospital, and the claims need not be sent to them by registered post—but they should be presented within seven days of the accident.

18. A list of the offices that are party to this agreement (and to the various other agreements referred to in the following paragraphs) will be found in Memorandum No. 137. Of course, if the name of the office concerned in a particular case is not found in this list, then the strict legal procedure outlined in paras. 13 and 14 must be followed or the claim may be repudiated.

PART II

CLAIMS FOR EXPENSES OF TREATMENT AGAINST INSURANCE COMPANIES.

19. The Road Traffic Act, 1930, s. 36 (2), as amended by the Act of 1933, provides that in certain cases, when an insurance company * has made a payment to a person injured in a motor accident and that person has received treatment at a hospital, then the insurance company must also make a payment to the hospital in respect of the costs of that treatment.

* Throughout this Memorandum the term "insurance company" is intended to include persons who are, in effect, authorised to be their own insurers on depositing £15,000 with the Supreme Court as a guarantee fund.

20. There is nothing in the Act to prevent a hospital from exercising any other rights it may have, apart from the Act, of recovering the expenses of treatment in any other way. See paragraph 56.

Hospitals which are Entitled to Payments.

21. Payment for the expenses of treatment of victims of motor accidents can be claimed by any hospital that is "an institution which provides medical or surgical treatment for in-patients."

This definition would appear to include hospitals which only provide nursing and accommodation, leaving the patients to arrange with their own doctors to attend them.

22. The Act does not specifically provide for the case where treatment is given to a patient by more than one hospital, but there seems no reason to doubt that in such cases each hospital by which the treatment has been given can properly claim a payment from the insurance company concerned. If the total expenses incurred by the hospitals exceed the limit of £5 or £50 (as the case may be), each hospital would presumably be entitled to a share of this sum in proportion to the amount of the expenses incurred by it.

Conditions under which Hospitals can Claim.

23. The right of a hospital to obtain a payment from an insurance company for the expenses of treatment of the victim of a motor accident depends on the following conditions being fulfilled :

(a) The victim must be either (i) a person who was not in the car that was responsible for the accident, or (ii) a person who was a paying passenger in the car.*

(b) The insurance company must have made a payment to the victim or to his dependents in respect of his personal injury or death.

(c) This payment must have been made under or in consequence of a policy that has been taken out to meet the requirements of the Act.

(d) The victim must have received treatment at the hospital either as an in-patient or as an out-patient.

24. " A person who was not in the car that was responsible for the accident " of course includes any person in any other car that is involved in the same accident, as well as a pedestrian, a rider, etc. The question of responsibility for an accident is often most difficult to decide, especially when more than one car is involved, but fortunately hospitals need not concern themselves with this point as it will be decided for them. See paragraph 29.

25. As it is always difficult for a hospital to be certain whether it has a good claim for the expenses of treatment in respect of each individual victim or not, it is recommended that notice should be given to insurance companies concerned of every motor accident victim that is treated at the hospital. For forms of notice and claim, see paragraphs 54 and 55.

Cases in which Hospitals have no Claim against Insurance Companies.

26. It will be seen from paragraph 23 (a) that claims can only be made in a very restricted class of cases. Thus, hospitals cannot recover from insurance companies for the expenses of treatment of the owner or driver of the car responsible for the accident, nor of the car-owner's friends * or employees being driven in the car.

27. The great majority of accident insurance offices, however (see para. 18), have agreed that they will pay a hospital the costs of treatment of a friend passenger in a car if the policy does in fact insure the car owner against his liability to such a person, and assuming, of course, that the insurance office has already made a payment to the passenger in respect of his injuries.

28. In the following cases, as the victim will receive no payment from any insurance company, the hospital will not have any claim against an insurance company under the Act, namely, when the accident has been caused by :

(a) An uninsured car, or a car that is uninsured at the time owing to its being stolen or used without authority :

(b) A car owned by a government department, a local authority † or a police authority.

(c) An invalid carriage, i.e., a small car specially designed for use by a person suffering from some physical disability, and used solely by such person.

(d) A tram car or trolley vehicle the use of which is authorised by a special Act of Parliament or Order.

Payment by Insurance Company to the Victim or his Dependents.

29. It is often asked whether it is necessary to prove the negligence of the car-driver before the hospital can recover a payment from the insurance company. The answer is that the hospital is not concerned with any question of negligence, but must merely ascertain whether any payment to the victim or his dependents has in fact been made by the insurance company under its policy; if such a payment has been made, but not until it has, then the insurance company must also make a payment to the hospital in respect of that victim's treatment.

* It has been decided in a case in Ireland that a hospital is entitled to recover the cost of treatment of a friend passenger, if covered by the policy, but it is doubtful whether this decision would be followed in England.

† Although not under any legal obligation to make payments to hospitals, a local authority may be expected to meet any reasonable request for a refund of expenses of treatment of a victim to whom that authority has incurred a liability.

30. In point of fact the insurance company will only make this payment to the victim either (1) if it is agreed, or has been decided in Court, that the car owner or driver insured by this company was responsible for the accident, or (2) if the responsibility is not proved or admitted, but the insurance company, in order to avoid legal proceedings, makes a payment to the victim by way of compromise of his claim—called an "ex-gratia payment" or "compassionate grant."

31. The Act specially provides that it is immaterial whether the insurance company makes the payment to the victim with or without an admission of liability. An ex-gratia payment therefore entitles the hospital to a payment for the expenses of treatment.

32. It must be remembered that, so long as no payment has actually been made to the victim by the insurance company, but is merely offered or under consideration, the hospital has no claim against the company.

33. The payment by an insurance company of the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* for emergency treatment is not such a payment under or in consequence of a policy as will entitle the hospital to claim a payment from the insurance company under the Act of 1930.

Compromises.

34. When an insurance company is proposing to make an ex-gratia payment to an injured person, it frequently asks the hospital to give up part of its claim for the costs of treatment. There is nothing improper in this, and provided the hospital is satisfied that the injured person has no legal claim for damages, or if he has that he is unlikely to take proceedings for their recovery, it will be to the benefit of the injured person for the hospital to agree to a compromise. But a hospital should not compromise in such a case if the injured person has a good claim to damages and is prepared to enforce his claim by proceedings in Court.

Expenses of Treatment that can be recovered.

35. The claim of a hospital against an insurance company is limited to £50 for in-patient treatment or £5 for out-patient treatment.

36. Insurers who are parties to the agreements mentioned in para. 18 will pay claims up to £50 for in-patient treatment and up to £5 for out-patient treatment in respect of a patient receiving both treatments.

Claims for In-patient Treatment.

37. Subject to the limit of £50, a hospital can claim, in respect of an in-patient, an amount for each day such person is maintained in the hospital equal to the average daily cost for each in-patient of the maintenance of the hospital and its staff and the maintenance and treatment of in-patients.

38. This average daily cost of an in-patient is arrived at by taking the hospital's total annual expenditure on the maintenance and treatment of in-patients, and dividing this figure by the total of daily counts of in-patients. This necessitates hospital accounts being kept in such a way as to distinguish between the expenses of in-patient and out-patient treatment.

39. No additional charge can be made for an operation or any special form of treatment.

40. It has been suggested that the Act might allow a hospital to pay its medical staff special fees for attending motor-accident cases and to add the amount of these fees to the costs of treatment to be recovered from an insurance company, but it is quite clear that the Act does not permit of this being done.

41. There is, however, nothing to prevent a hospital from making such payments as it chooses to its medical staff in respect of road accident cases, and any such fees can be included in the total maintenance expenditure of the hospital in respect of all in-patients. In the result, the average daily cost of maintenance will obviously be increased, but as road accident cases are only a small proportion of all in-patients, it will only be increased by a very small amount.

42. The great majority of accident insurance offices (see para. 18) have agreed that the average daily cost of in-patient treatment shall be based on each hospital's annual report, and that its amount shall be agreed each year between the Accident Offices Association and each individual hospital. The rate so agreed will be paid by insurers to hospitals without the necessity of further negotiations regarding the daily cost. The rate is reviewed annually, and remains in operation until the next annual report is submitted and an alteration of rate agreed. The cost to be paid in respect of any in-patient will be based on the agreed rate in force at the date of his admission to hospital, and will not be affected by any subsequent change of rate.

Claims for Out-patient Treatment.

43. Subject to the limit of £5, a hospital can claim, in respect of an out-patient, the reasonable expenses actually incurred in his treatment. This involves the keeping of hospital records in such a way as to enable hospitals to separate the cost of the different services rendered in the out-patient department, e.g., an X-ray examination, a massage, a surgical dressing, etc., so that an account may be rendered to an insurance company showing the cost of the services actually rendered to an individual patient.

44. In order to avoid the necessity for this costing, however, the great majority of accident insurance offices (see para. 18) have agreed to make payments to hospitals for the out-patient treatment of motor accident victims in accordance with the following schedule—which has been accepted by a large number of hospitals as a fair estimate of the actual expenses incurred, viz. :

Schedule of Payments for Out-patient Treatment.

	£	s.	d.
First attendance (including dressings, splints, etc.)		†5	0 or
		12	6
Subsequent attendances (including simple dressings and inspections)		2	0
X-Ray Examinations (per each examination)		10	6
Out-patient Operations under general anæsthetics	1	1	0
Out-patient Operations under local anæsthetics		7	6
Massage (per attendance)		2	0
Electrical Treatment (per attendance) ...		2	0

† Where the emergency treatment fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* is payable, this will be paid in lieu of the 5*s.* for the first treatment; and subsequent attendances and treatment will be paid for up to a limit of £5.

Deduction of Moneys Received.

45. Whether the claim made is for in-patient or out-patient treatment the Act provides that any moneys actually received by the hospital in payment of a specific charge for a patient's treatment must be deducted from the total expenses incurred when making up the account for presentation to the insurance company. But it is specially provided that moneys received under any contributory scheme are not to be so deducted.

46. It seems obvious that a purely voluntary payment to a hospital by a patient in return for his treatment is not a receipt in payment of a specific charge.

47. It must be understood that any sum received in payment of a specific charge is to be deducted from the total expenses of treatment. Hospitals can then recover the remainder of such expenses up to the maximum of £50 in the case of an in-patient or of £5 in the case of an out-patient.

48. It is not clear from the Road Traffic Acts whether the emergency fee of 12*s.* 6*d.*, if already received, should be deducted from the expenses incurred for in-patient or out-patient treatment or not, but the great majority of accident insurance offices (see para. 18) have agreed to pay claims for in-patient treatment without deduction of the 12*s.* 6*d.* emergency fee, and as regards out-patient treatment the point is dealt with under the Schedule set out in para. 44.

49. In order to avoid unnecessary correspondence, every claim made against an insurance company should state clearly whether the hospital gave the patient emergency treatment or not; and if so, whether the fee has been received or not.

PART III

PROCEDURE IN MAKING CLAIMS.

50. It is recommended that, whenever the victim of a motor accident is brought to a hospital, information should at once be obtained from the police as to the registration numbers of all cars involved in the accident, the names and addresses of their owners, and the names of the insurance companies by which they are insured against third-party risks.

51. It is often found in cases where the emergency fee is payable that the police do not supply the information quickly enough to enable the claim for the 12*s.* 6*d.* fee to be made within seven days of the accident. In these cases it is advisable to ask the police to supply in the first place only the names and addresses of the car users, explaining that the information is required urgently, and why.

52. If a car owner has not produced his insurance certificate to the police at the time of the accident, but is to produce it at some police station, the local police should be asked to communicate at once with that police station and ask it to note the name of the insurance company when the certificate is produced there.

53. The claim for the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* for emergency treatment, to be sent * to the user of the car within seven days of the accident, may be in the following terms :

> I beg to inform you that A.B. was injured on the ..... day of ..... in a road accident in which a car used by you was involved, and that A.B. was first examined and treated for such injury at this hospital.

* See paragraph 14.

I shall therefore be much obliged if you will send me the sum of 12*s.* 6*d.*, being the fee due from you to the hospital in respect of such examination and treatment under s. 16 of the Road Traffic Act, 1934.

54. For the purpose of making a claim against an insurance company under s. 36 (2) of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, as soon as any motor accident victim is treated at the hospital a preliminary notice should be sent to the insurance company —or to each insurance company if more than one car is involved in the accident—which may be in the following terms :

Road Traffic Act, 1930, s. 36 (2)

I beg to inform you that A.B. is being treated at this Hospital as an in-patient (or out-patient) for injuries incurred in a road accident in which car No..... belonging to X.Y. was involved. I understand that X.Y. is insured against third-party risks by a policy issued by your company, and I shall be much obliged if you will let me know if and when you make any payment under or in consequence of that policy to A.B. or his dependents or to any other person or company in respect of his injuries.

55. As soon as the victim has completed his treatment, or as soon as the expenses of his treatment as an out-patient amount to £5, or as soon as the expenses of his treatment as an in-patient amount to £50, a formal claim for the expenses of treatment should be sent to the insurance company concerned, which may be in the following form :

With reference to my previous letter to you dated the ..... I now beg to inform you

For an out-patient : that A.B. has been receiving treatment at this Hospital as an out-patient, and that the expenses of such treatment (in accordance with the agreed Schedule) amount to £..... as is shown by the enclosed account.

For an in-patient : that A.B. has been treated at this Hospital as an in-patient from the ..... day of ..... to the ..... day of ....., i.e., for ..... days; that the average daily cost per in-patient of the maintenance of this hospital and its staff and the maintenance and treatment of its in-patients is .....s. .....d.; and that the total expenses of the in-patient treatment of A.B. therefore amount to £.....

This Hospital also provided emergency treatment for this patient, but the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.*, which is due from X.Y. in respect of such treatment, has not yet been paid, and I understand from X.Y. that you will pay this fee to the Hospital on his behalf.

Or, This Hospital also provided emergency treatment for this patient, and the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* in respect of such treatment has already been received by the Hospital from X.Y.

Or, This Hospital did not provide emergency treatment for this patient.

I shall therefore be much obliged if you will now pay the sum of £..... to this Hospital, being the amount due from you under s. 36 (2) of the Road Traffic Act, 1930, as amended (and also the fee of 12*s.* 6*d.* payable by you on behalf of X.Y. under s. 16 of the Road Traffic Act, 1934, making a total of £.....).

56. It should be noted that the Road Traffic Acts do not in any way deprive hospitals of any rights they already possess. Hospitals which have the power of charging their patients for treatment may find it more profitable to proceed at Common Law instead of making any claim under the Act of 1930. The method of recovering costs of treatment in this manner is outlined in Memorandum No. 54.

The relevant sections of the Road Traffic Acts are given in the Appendix.

APPENDIX.

RELEVANT SECTIONS OF THE ROAD TRAFFIC ACTS.

ROAD TRAFFIC ACT, 1930.

(as amended by Section 33 of the Act of 1933).

S. 36. (2) Where any payment is made (whether or not with an admission of liability) by

(a) an authorised insurer under or in consequence of a policy issued under this Part of this Act; or

(b) the owner of a vehicle in relation to the user of which a security under this Part of this Act is in force; or

(c) the owner of a vehicle who has made a deposit under this Part of this Act, in respect of the death of or bodily injury to any person arising out of the use of a motor vehicle on a road or in a place to which the public have a right of access, and the person who has so died or been bodily injured has to the knowledge of the authorised insurer or such owner as the case may be received treatment at a hospital, whether as an in-patient or as an out-patient, in respect of the injury so arising, there shall also be paid by the authorised insurer or such owner to such hospital the expenses reasonably incurred by the hospital in affording such treatment, after deducting from such expenses any moneys actually received by the hospital in payment of a specific charge for such treatment, not being moneys received under any contributory scheme;

Provided that the amount to be paid by the authorised insurer or such owner shall not exceed fifty pounds for each person so treated as an in-patient, or five pounds for each person so treated as an out-patient.

For the purposes of this sub-section the expression "hospital" means an institution (not being an institution carried on for profit) which provides medical or surgical treatment for in-patients and the expression "expenses reasonably incurred" means:—

(a) in relation to a person who receives treatment at a hospital as an in-patient, an amount for each day such person is maintained in such hospital representing the average daily cost for each in-patient of the maintenance of the hospital and the staff thereof and the maintenance and treatment of the in-patients therein; and

(b) in relation to a person who receives treatment at a hospital as an out-patient, reasonable expenses actually incurred.

ROAD TRAFFIC ACT, 1934.

S. 16. (1) Where medical or surgical treatment or examination is immediately required as a result of bodily injury (including fatal injury) to any person caused by, or arising out of, the use of a motor vehicle on a road, and the treatment or examination so required (in this section referred to as "emergency treatment") is effected by a registered medical practitioner, the person who was using the vehicle at the time of the event out of which the bodily injury arose shall, on a claim being made in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding section, pay to the practitioner, or where emergency treatment is effected by more than one practitioner, to the practitioner by whom it is first effected:—

(a) a fee of twelve shillings and sixpence in respect of each person in whose case the emergency treatment is effected by him.

(2) Where emergency treatment is first effected in a hospital (that is to say, an institution, not being an institution carried on for profit, which provides medical or surgical treatment for in-patients), the provisions of the foregoing sub-section with respect to the payment of a fee shall, so far as applicable, have effect with the substitution of references to the hospital for references to a registered medical practitioner.

S. 17 (1) A chief officer of police shall, if so requested by a person who alleges that he is entitled to claim a payment under the last foregoing section, furnish to that person any information at the disposal of the chief officer as to the identification marks of any motor vehicle which that person alleges to be a vehicle out of the use of which the bodily injury arose, and as to the identity and address of the person who was using the vehicle at the time of the event out of which it arose.

(2) A claim for a payment under the last foregoing section may be made at the time when the emergency treatment is effected, by oral request to the person who was using the vehicle, and if not so made must be made by request in writing served on him within seven days from the day on which the emergency treatment was effected.

(3) A request in writing must be signed by the claimant or, in the case of a hospital, by an executive officer thereof, must state the name and address of the claimant, the circumstances in which the emergency treatment was effected, and that it was first effected by the claimant, or, in the case of a hospital, in the hospital.

(4) A request in writing may be served by delivering it to the person who was using the vehicle, or by sending it in a pre-paid registered letter addressed to him at his usual or last-known address.

(5) A sum payable under the last foregoing section shall be recoverable as if it were a simple contract debt due from the person who was using the vehicle to the practitioner or the hospital.

(6) A payment made under the last foregoing section to a practitioner or hospital shall operate as a discharge, to the extent of the amount paid, of any liability of the person who was using the vehicle, or of any other person, to pay any sum in respect of the expenses or remuneration of the practitioner or hospital of or for effecting the emergency treatment.

(7) A payment under the last foregoing section shall not be deemed to be a payment by an authorised insurer or owner for the purposes of sub-section (2) of section thirty-six of the principal Act.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Object of Survey.

THE object of this Survey is the presentation in as full detail as possible of the position of the Hospitals in Great Britain and Ireland with reference to :—

(a) The facilities available for treatment and the extent to which they are utilised,
(b) The annual cost involved and the several sources from which the funds are derived.

Arrangement of Tables.

In the main tables the Voluntary Hospitals are grouped under the headings :—

Group A. Hospitals having 100 or more beds.
Group B. Hospitals having 30 to 99 beds.
Group C. Hospitals having less than 30 beds.

In addition, Tables of the details of the work and finances of the following special groups are given :—

General Hospitals associated with Medical Schools.
" " without Medical Schools containing 200 or more available beds.
" " " " " " 150 to 199 " "
" " " " " " 125 to 149 " "
" " " " " " 100 to 124 " "
" " " " " " 30 to 99 " "
" " " " " " Less than 30 " "
Children's Hospitals ; Ear, Nose and Throat Hospitals ; Eye Hospitals ; Women's Hospitals ; Maternity Hospitals, etc. ; etc.

Omission from the tables of certain Hospitals.

As announced in the 1939 edition of the Year-Book (page xlv), the figures of hospitals which, after full notice, have failed to comply with certain minimum requirements in uniform accounting, do not appear in these Tables. These requirements are :—

(a) The rendering of an Annual Report by a prescribed date.
(b) The adoption of the Calendar Year for the Annual Accounts.
(c) The presentation of the accounts on the lines laid down in the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts, or (temporarily) in a form admitting of adjustment to comply with it. Explanations and notes of the effect of this requirement on certain hospitals will be found on pp. 29 and 30.

Adjustments to figures.

An attempt has been made to present the figures of all hospitals upon the basis of the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts. Slight divergences from the figures published in the Annual Reports of a few hospitals will consequently be found.

The figures in the Tables giving particulars of groups of hospitals include the returns made by a few hospitals covering a period longer than 12 months. This is generally due to some such cause as the changing of the date of the termination of the official year.

Definition of London area.

For the purposes of the Statistical Tables and the Directory of Voluntary Hospitals, London is regarded as the area covered by King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, viz., 11 miles from St. Paul's Cathedral. This area includes portions of the counties of Essex, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex and Surrey in addition to the whole of the County of London. Similarly, all hospitals under the control of the London County Council are grouped together, whether they are situated in the County of London or not.

"Available" beds of London hospitals.

The figures of "available" beds of the London hospitals are the average daily bed complement during the year after deducting beds temporarily closed for Rebuilding, Extensions, Repairs, or other causes.

Thanks.

The Editors desire to express thanks to King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, to the Chairmen and Officers of the Voluntary Hospitals and to the Public Authorities who have kindly supplied information.

Note.—The following hospitals, whose accounts are otherwise satisfactory, did not classify their maintenance expenditure as enjoined in the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts on which the preceding Table (5) is based. As it has not been found possible to correct their classification no alternative has been left but to omit their expenditure from this one table. This greatly lessens the value of one of the most important tables of the series and it is desired that each hospital concerned may examine its classification of expenditure with a view to adopting for the future that followed by the 795 conforming hospitals.

(a) In the London County Council's hospitals, there is a "group" scheme for consultant and specialist services. The general hospitals are divided into seven groups and the services of 9 dermatologists, 13 ear, nose and throat specialists, 8 obstetricians and gynæcologists, 12 ophthalmologists, 9 orthopædists, 13 pediatricians, 18 physicians, 10 radiologists, 19 surgeons, 8 urologists and 19 anæsthetists are regularly utilised. There are panels comprising 3 neuro-surgeons and 8 neurologists, and these specialists are called in when required. There are also a number of part-time consultants and specialists employed in special units and at special hospitals. In addition, 5 full-time radiologists are employed at groups of general hospitals and 6 obstetricians and gynæcologists working approximately half-time for the Council are attached to selected general hospitals. Tuberculosis officers of the metropolitan boroughs are honorary consultants for tuberculosis in the general hospitals. Dental facilities are available at all the Council's hospitals.

Address: County Hall, Westminster Bridge, S.E. 1. Tel. Waterloo 5000.
Medical Officer of Health: W. Allen Daley, M.D., F.R.C.P.

NOTES.
Ambulances.—The Council controls its own Ambulance service; for particulars see page 228.
Pathological Services.—A pathological service is available to all hospitals through a number of group laboratories, which are staffed by pathologists, assistant pathologists, and technicians. Each group laboratory is responsible for the pathological work of hospitals in its district. The majority of the general hospitals included in this scheme are also each provided with a hospital laboratory staffed by a technician, where routine pathological work is done.

HOME AMBULANCE SERVICE

Telephone : Sloane 9828 & 7136.

Headquarters : The Joint Council of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society, 12, Grosvenor Crescent, London, S.W. 1.

THE Home Ambulance Service of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society was set up in 1919 with the intention of providing better means of transport for the sick and injured throughout the country.

The end of the War afforded an opportunity for meeting a want that had become seriously urgent.

At the time the Armistice was signed, a large number of the ambulances of the Order and Society was still effective. Many had been shattered by enemy gun-fire. There was, however, a considerable number that could be made available for a further period of service.

Happily it was at this moment that the two organisations decided that the need for united efforts had not ceased with the War. It was arranged that for certain purposes they should continue to work together in promoting the health of the community, and one of the first steps they undertook in that direction was the organisation of a National Ambulance Service for England, Ireland and Wales.

The Committee has every reason to believe that the Home Ambulance Service has become an important link in the chain of organisations for the promotion of the health of the community, and that the co-operation of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society in its establishment has been justified by the result.

HOSPITAL SERVICE AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Arrangements may be made by telephone or letter for the conveyance of patients from London to any part of the country.

A male attendant always accompanies the driver of the ambulance.

A charge of 10*s*. is made for the conveyance of a patient from any address within the administrative County of London to any Hospital in the same area.

By arrangement with Hospital Almoners a service is maintained for the transfer of patients from Hospitals to Convalescent Homes.

A female attendant accompanies all convalescent cases and if sufficient notice is given a similar arrangement may be made for the Private Hire Service.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL AMBULANCE SERVICE.

HEADQUARTERS: THE COUNTY HALL, S.E. 1. Telephone No.: Waterloo 3311.

I. Ambulances Supplied without Payment.

THE Council provides, within the Administrative County of London, ambulances, free of cost, for the conveyance to :—

A. Hospitals and/or private residences of :—

Persons meeting with accidents or suffering from sudden illnesses in the streets, public places, places of employment, etc.

B. Hospitals :—

(i) Persons meeting with accidents in their homes;

(ii) Persons suffering from illnesses in their homes if a medical practitioner certifies that the case is one of life or death, and that arrangements have been made for the reception of the patient in a hospital;

(iii) Parturient women, if the case is one of urgency, whether from the home, place of business, or elsewhere, on the application of a qualified medical practitioner or certified midwife, provided that either a doctor or midwife accompanies the case; and

(iv) Non-urgent cases of parturition.

In such cases admission to a maternity bed must have previously been arranged and a card (issued by the Council to hospitals and municipal maternity homes) for such admission obtained. This card must be handed to the ambulance attendant at the time of removal.

In these cases a nurse or a female friend must accompany the patient. The patient may also be accompanied by her husband.

(Note.—The Corporation of the City of London maintains its own ambulance service for dealing with cases of accident and illness occurring in the streets within the City area.)

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes A and B (i).

No telephone number is required; dial "999" and ask the operator for "AMBULANCE."

Cases coming under classes B (ii), (iii) and (iv).

Ask the telephone operator (or dial) for one of the headquarters telephone numbers, namely : WATerloo 6000, NEW Cross 2645, CENtral 6301, or REGent 4000.

When communication has been effected, particulars should be clearly given in this order : Place of accident or illness, name of the caller.

C. The Council's hospitals for infectious cases.

D. The Council's hospitals and institutions for non-infectious cases.

In cases coming under class D no charge is made at the time of removal, but there is a liability to assessment of a charge based on the patient's ability to pay.

II. Ambulances Supplied on Payment.

E. Ambulances and ambulance omnibuses are also provided by the Council, when not required for the purposes stated above, on payment of charges, as laid down from time to time by the Council, for the conveyance of infectious and non-infectious cases between private houses, hospitals (other than to the Council's hospitals, etc., under the provisions of Section I) nursing homes and for examinations, consultations and treatment by specialists or at special establishments.

The conveyance of private persons between addresses both of which are outside the administrative county of London cannot be undertaken, unless in circumstances of exceptional urgency.

Arrangements for the reception of an infectious case must be made by or on behalf of the patient before application for an ambulance is sent to the Council.

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes C, D and E :—

Application should be made by telephone to Headquarters Telephone No. WATerloo 3311, when full information and the charge for any proposed removal may be obtained at any hour of the day or night, including Sundays and public holidays.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S HOSPITAL AND COLLEGE

FOUNDED BY RAHERE A.D. 1123

WAR TIME ARRANGEMENTS

All the pre-clinical Departments of the College are now temporarily established at Cambridge, where full courses have been arranged to meet the requirements of the Regulations of the University of London and are carried out by St. Bartholomew's teachers.

The clinical work of the senior students continues to be based on St. Bartholomew's Hospital, but is also carried on in two large Hospitals in Sector III of the Emergency Medical Service, viz. at New Southgate and St. Albans, which provide a larger number of beds than normally. Adequate facilities for the teaching of Pathology and Midwifery have been arranged. All the Out-patient Departments at St. Bartholomew's are open.

Special arrangements are made for the housing of students.

A full Staff of clinical teachers is distributed over the Hospitals. Lecture courses are arranged in all Hospitals.

BETHLEM ROYAL HOSPITAL

FOR NERVOUS AND MENTAL DISORDERS

Monks Orchard, Eden Park, Beckenham, Kent.

Reg. Tel. Address: BETHLEM, BECKENHAM
Telephone: SPRINGPARK 1180–1181
Station: EDEN PARK (Southern Railway)

President: HER MAJESTY QUEEN MARY.
Phy.-Sup.: J. G. PORTER PHILLIPS, M.D., F.R.C.P.

This Registered Hospital is situated at Monks Orchard in some 250 acres of park, pleasure and farm grounds.

Applications can be considered on behalf of patients of the educated classes in a presumably curable condition. With a view to early treatment, voluntary or uncertified patients are admitted.

Patients who can contribute 5 guineas weekly towards the cost of treatment and maintenance may be received as vacancies arise. The Committee will also consider applications for admission at lower rates and in certain cases will be prepared to admit patients free of charge.

The comfort of sensitive patients is greatly enhanced by the fact that the majority are given single bedrooms.

Treatment on Modern Principles.—Every facility for specialised investigation and treatment is provided in the Lord Wakefield of Hythe Science and Treatment Unit, including Radiological and Dental Departments, Bio-chemical, Pathological and Psychological Laboratories.

The Medical Staff have access to a panel of Consultants in cases which present unusual symptoms requiring specialised investigation and treatment.

Under the direction of qualified officers, Helio-therapy, Hydro-therapy and Electro-therapy are administered in the Physio-Therapy Department.

Special Treatment (Insulin, Cardiazol, Triazol, etc.) is given to suitable cases.

Occupational Therapy in the form of various Arts and Crafts is actively encouraged from the medical aspect, and under the guidance of a competent instructress this department has proved most effective as a therapeutic factor in all stages of mental illness.

The promotion of physical fitness is a prominent item of treatment, and this is enhanced by arrangements for patients to take part in Outdoor and Indoor Sports and Entertainments, and special attention is drawn to the physical drill and dancing classes, which form part of the regular hospital routine.

Application should be made to the Physician-Superintendent.

Charitable Appeals.

On the following pages the Charities named below have given details of their particular and most pressing needs.

It is hoped that through the medium of this book part of their burden may be lightened. The greatest traditions of Voluntary Hospitals and indeed of all Charitable Bodies have been maintained in the past and will continue to be maintained in the future only by the personal interest and generosity of a multitude of sympathetic benefactors.

Charitably disposed people who realise the great work undertaken by the Voluntary Hospitals and kindred charities are asked to contribute towards its cost by Legacies, Donations or Annual Subscriptions.

The Secretaries of any of the Charities mentioned below will gladly supply further details regarding their work.

ROTUNDA HOSPITAL, DUBLIN

The Hospital contains 173 beds. Over 3,000 maternity cases and 600 gynæcological patients are treated during the year. Besides the Hospital there is an extern Maternity Department with over 1,500 cases. The routine for students consists of attendance at the Morning Lectures on Midwifery and Gynæcology, examination of patients in the Gynæcological Departments, attendance at operations and all abnormal labour in the Hospital Wards, and conduction of labour cases in the intern and extern departments; a new large Ante-natal Clinic and Dispensary has just been added which gives increased facilities to Students, the Infants' Department is available also. The Pathological Laboratory has been considerably enlarged, and offers convenient facilities for practical work to Post Graduates and Students. There is a pregnancy-diagnosis station where the Aschheim-zondek test is carried out. The Bio-chemist is prepared to help any Post Graduate desiring to do research work on the material in the Hospital. There is a fully equipped X-ray installation under the care of a competent radiologist.

Qualified students are allowed to assist at the major and perform some minor gynæcological operations.

The Hospital Courses are continuous throughout the year, and students may join at any time. The Class is limited, therefore it is advisable to register in advance. Board and residence can be obtained in the Hospital at £2 2s. per week.

Extra classes in gynæcological diagnosis and operative midwifery are conducted by the Assistants to the Master.

One grass and two hard tennis courts and one standard squash racket court are available for students living in the Residents' Mess.

The L.M. Certificate is given to qualified practitioners on examination after six months' attendance at the Hospital.

Fees: one month, £6 6s.; months other than the first, £4 4s.; Three months, £12 12s. L.M. Course, £21.

THIS Hostel was founded in 1891. Its object is to provide a Home, where men and women in the last stages of illness, who, having seen better days, shrink from claiming the shelter of the County Hospital or Workhouse Infirmary and can appreciate very fully the refinement and comfort which we are able to give them, may end their days in peace carefully and tenderly nursed and surrounded by everything that can cheer them and alleviate their sufferings.

The Home is almost entirely dependent upon charity; it is absolutely free to all without distinction of creed or country.

Application for admission to be made to the Sister Superior, at: The Hostel of God, Lindfield, Sussex.

Cheques to be crossed "Messrs. HOARE, 37 Fleet Street, E.C. 4," and made payable to "The Hostel of GOD."

ILFORD LIMITED

Manufacturers of Ilford X-ray Film offer a comprehensive range of

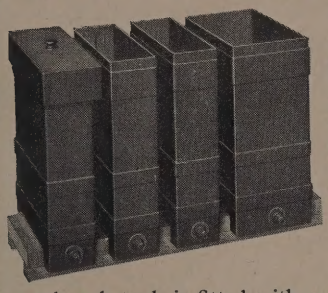
X-RAY ACCESSORIES

for HOSPITALS, CLINICS, etc.

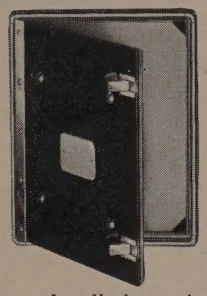
Ilford Processing Tank Outfit



These tanks are the standard processing equipment of many hospitals and are manufactured of hard vulcanised rubber. This material is light and strong, and is unaffected by X-ray processing solutions. The walls are sufficiently thick to prevent distortion in normal use, and each tank is fitted with a screw-in vulcanite plug for emptying.

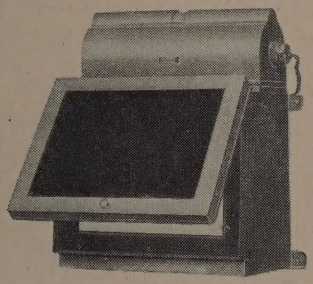
Outfit No. 1 for films 15 × 12 ins. and 30 × 40 cms.
Outfit No. 2 for films up to 17 × 14 ins.
Outfit No. 3 for films up to 17 × 14 ins. (5 gall. size).
Each set complete with lid and wooden baseboard.

Ilford Cassette



A light-weight, all-metal cassette embodying many distinctive features which make for long service, ease of manipulation, and rapid working. The front consists of milled aluminium stretched over a solid frame having rounded corners, and incorporating a light-trap. The slight curvature of the hinged back, with its facing of resilient felt, ensures even contact; a lead sheet absorbs scattered radiation. A strong, full-length hinge gives rigidity and prevents warping, whilst clip fastenings ensure rapid loading and positive screen contact. Rapid and accurate centring is facilitated by small milled lines on the face of the cassette at each side, and a washable tablet for record purposes is provided.
Available in all the standard sizes.

Ilford Darkroom Lamp No. 4

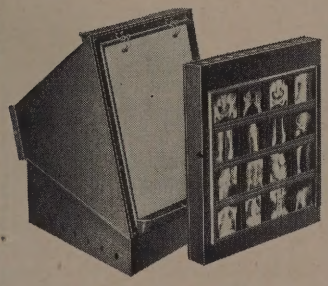


A dual purpose Darkroom Lamp. Ideal for use above the Processing Unit. The safelight is firmly held in a metal frame and can be swung up to reveal an opal glass panel suitable for the inspection of films after processing. The size of the Safelight is 10 × 8 inches.

Ilford Darkroom Lamp No. 7

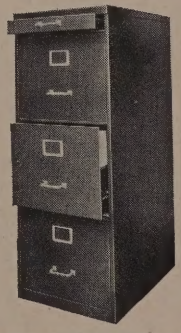
This lamp gives the advantages of both direct and indirect systems of lighting. Fitted with 12 × 10 inch safelight in the top which gives reflected light from the ceiling, and a 10 × 8 inch safelight in the bottom which provides for ample direct lighting. The ideal lamp for general darkroom illumination.

Ilford Pyramid Type Viewing Lantern



This lantern has been designed to give maximum illumination with minimum of heat. The body is mirror lined, efficiently ventilated and the panel is lit by a 100 watt standard lamp. Each lantern is supplied complete with drip tray for wet films. Available in 15 × 12 or 17 × 14 inch size. Can be supplied singly or in banks to special order.

Ilford X-ray Film Filing Cabinet



Constructed throughout of steel. The drawers are designed to carry a heavy load of X-ray negatives and run freely on anti-friction ball bearing suspension slides. The cabinet is available in two sizes to accommodate filing envelopes 16 × 13 inches and 18 × 15 inches. Each drawer is fitted with an adjustable compressor plate and has a clear filing space of 22 inches; sufficient for 1,000 negatives.

Further details of these and many other Ilford X-ray Accessories are given in the X-ray Materials and Accessories Catalogue
